LUCAS DENOUNCED IN SENATE FOR HIS POLITICAL LETTER

Cutting, Couzens and Johnson Join in Attack on G. O. P. Director for Writing Revenue Men.

"PARTY GOVERNMENT" ISSUE INVOLVED.

New Mexico Republican Says Former Gov. Smith Is Entitled to Square Deal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Robert H. Lucas, executive director for the Republican National Committee, was denounced by some Republicans in the Senate today for sending a letter to his former subordinates in the Internal Revenue bureau asking them to keep him informed of political conditions.

The letter was dated Oct. 6, shortly after Lucas resigned as Commissioner of Internal Revenue to accept his present position. It was read to the Senate by Senator Cutting (Rep.), New Mexico, who said he believed the issue raised involved the question of party government.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, asked if this letter was sent to the men who check the income tax returns of citizens all over the country. "I understand so," Cutting replied. "Can Control Politics of Nation." Couzens called attention to statements which have been made in the past that "the Commissioner of Internal Revenue can control the politics of the nation."

Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, also interrupted, saying, "It is obvious the Internal Revenue collectors, acting for the department in Washington, through internal revenue taxation, attempt to do control the politics of the nation."

Cutting said he did not want to draw any conclusions along that line. The letter read by Cutting was a stationery of the Republican National Committee. In it, Lucas said, "You can be of great help to me by keeping me advised of political conditions in your section."

The New Mexico Senator read further from the Lucas letter and said the collectors had appeared to be termed "politics spies" for Lucas.

Square Deal for Smith. Cutting said he thought Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee in 1928, was entitled to a "square deal" and a postscript evaded the issue in replying to Smith's demand for an apology from the Republican National Committee for permitting Lucas to send a letter in which he had written a "false" quotation.

"I hold no brief for Alfred E. Smith," said Cutting, "but he is entitled to a square deal and he ought to be lied about. The only reply to his request was that Lucas will apologize if Gov. Smith alters his position on prohibition, or something else which has no bearing on the subject."

Cutting said Lucas had used a "false" name in sending out letters. "What would any decent man do on receiving a letter of that kind? He would at least make some investigation of it," Cutting said. "Of course, Mr. Lucas did not think for a minute the letter was genuine."

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, asked if it was not "logical to believe that Lucas concocted the letter himself."

"That is a possible conclusion to draw," Cutting replied. "If he did concoct it was concocted within a few miles of him."

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, asked if Cutting was of the opinion Lucas had "forged the signature."

"I wouldn't accuse him of forging or convincing to forge," Cutting replied. "But if he did not he is the least intelligent man who ever treated the activities of a political party."

Cutting said Lucas was using the Republican National Committee to protect himself in his "personal fight with Senator Norris," and referred to a letter he had sent all precinct workers in which he requested his letter attempting

BONES OF TECUMSEH
REPORTED FOUND ON ISLAND

Members of Soldiers Club Think They Have Partly Authenticated Identity of Discovery.

By the Associated Press.
SARNIA, Ontario, Jan. 16.—Discovery on Walpole Island in Lake St. Clair of what are thought to be the bones of Tecumseh, famous Indian chief, was reported today by members of the Walpole Island Soldiers' Club.

The find was made a week ago at the residence of Sarah White, 85-year-old widow of a former chief, but the information was withheld pending partial authentication which the members of the club now believe they have.

Tecumseh, famous Shawnee chieftain, was born in 1768 near where Springfield, O., now stands. Following the earlier plan of Pontiac, he and his brother, Tenskwawima, known as the Prophet, organized a great town on the White and Tippecanoe Rivers in Indiana. His ambitious plans were smashed by William Henry Harrison, later President of the United States, at the Battle of Tippecanoe. Tecumseh then approached the British and was made a Brigadier-General in the British forces in the War of 1812. He was killed in the Battle of the Thames, Oct. 5, 1812, in Ontario, not a great distance from Walpole Island. He was the last of the great Indian leaders east of the Mississippi.

CHICAGO GANGSTERS TRYING TO KILL MAN, WOUND WOMAN

Intended Victim Runs to Safety as They Open Machine Gun Fire in Crowded Street.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—A woman was wounded today by machine gun fire when gangsters attempted unsuccessfully to kill a man in a crowded business section of the Rogers Park district.

Automobile windshields and plate glass windows were shattered by bullets fired from a moving automobile. The district, which is just south of the Chicago-Evanston line, was thrown into an uproar.

The target of the attempted assassination escaped by running into a garage and through an alley. Mrs. Alma Moore was hit in the wrist by one of the bullets as she stood in front of a candy shop. Mrs. Eva May and Mrs. Hazel Kester, employed in the shop, were cut by flying glass.

MOVE FOR STATE DRY REPEAL

Bill Introduced in House by 10 St. Louis Representatives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—Repeal of the State bond dry law, enacted in 1923, is proposed in a bill introduced in the House today by 10 of the St. Louis delegation of 19 Representatives. Adoption of the bill would end State enforcement of prohibition and leave only Federal prohibition enforcement within the State.

A similar act was introduced in the House in the last session by Representative William Lacey of Kansas City, but it failed to become law when it reached the floor. The new bill was introduced by Representatives Schlitz, Reiner, Davies, Praeger, Schlegel, Schaffner, Goehner, Ploeser, Hehl and Miller.

French to Build 1000-Ft. Liner

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The French Line today announced it was constructing what it calls the fastest and largest electrically propelled passenger ship in the world. The length of the ship will be 1000 feet, and its speed more than 30 knots. Construction has been begun at St. Nazaire, and it is expected the liner will enter the Havre-New York service in the spring of 1932. The Leviathan, largest American vessel, is 905 feet long. The Majestic, largest British ship, is 915 feet long, although not so broad as Leviathan. The Bremen, new German ocean greyhound, is 898 feet long.

CLARA BOW LOSES BIG ROLE BECAUSE
'SHE NEEDS REST'

Replaced, During Trial of Her Former Secretary, by Sylvia Sidney as Co-Star of Gary Cooper.

DEFENDANT 'HASN'T'
TOLD ANYTHING YET'

Daisy de Boe, About to Take Stand, Tells Reporters She Is Not Going to Lie Any More.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 16.—Clara Bow was removed from the position of a co-star with Gary Cooper in the film, "City Streets," by officers of the Paramount-Public Corporation, today. Her place will be taken by Sylvia Sidney, recently of the New York stage.

The announcement marked the first time since Miss Bow became a starring figure that she has been replaced in a picture. She is under contract to Paramount.

An hour after the original announcement, B. F. Schulberg, general manager of Paramount, said: "It has been found necessary to withdraw Miss Bow from the picture, 'City Streets,' which goes into production early next week. Her physician, Dr. Wesley Hommel, advised us that she must have a rest of fully a month because of the nervous strain she has been under."

"We will start work immediately on a story for her new picture, which goes into production just as soon as Miss Bow is able to return to work. Sylvia Sidney, who was originally brought to Hollywood from the New York stage and from whom we regard as a sensational screen discovery, will take Miss Bow's place opposite Gary Cooper in 'City Streets.'"

Daisy de Boe, Miss Bow's former secretary, on trial on a charge of theft of $18,000 from the actress, told newspaper men before court opened today, "I haven't told anything yet," and added she was going to tell the truth "no matter how it hurts" Miss Bow.

"I've lied and lied to protect Clara and I'm not going to now," the former secretary said. "I've got to tell the truth for self protection no matter how it hurts her."

Miss de Boe's comment. "I hear Paramount is giving Clara a $10,000 bonus," she commented, leaning against the court room counsel table. "That's their way of letting her down easy—a good long vacation."

In her confession, Miss de Boe said Schulberg, Paramount executive, had told the actress to keep her name out of the papers. "One more slam in the papers and Clara is through with pictures," was Miss de Boe's further comment in the confession. Study executives, however, denied Miss Bow was "through."

Explaining her act yesterday of taking notes while prosecution witnesses testified, Miss de Boe said she made notes of things that came to her mind as the result of the testimony.

"You know things run back nearly two years," she explained. "I can't sit still and think of anything that bears on the case. The testimony refreshes my memory. Also some of the things said are untrue. When I get on the stand I'm going to straighten those out."

Attorneys indicated the defense would open with Miss de Boe as the first witness this afternoon. The identification of canceled checks, checkbook stubs and bank ledger sheets was resumed with George L. Armstrong, District Attorney's accountant, on the stand. David Clark, prosecutor, has entered the documents in evidence to support the State's charges. Miss de Boe emphasized at least $16,000.

Clara, let her dogs play with a diamond studded vanity case, so her secretary just took it home with her and put it in her own safety deposit box at a bank.

This, according to Marjorie Flannery, District Attorney's investigator, was Miss de Boe's explanation of how the vanity case and other jewelry came to be in her safety deposit box when it was seized and opened.

Armstrong yesterday described hundreds of "checks" drawn against the special Clara Bow account, to which Miss de Boe had access for two years. He said checks for about $48,000 and appeared.

Armstrong said some of the canceled checks bore such legends as "Clara Clara borrowed from me," "Due for makeup for Clara," and "Clara's birthday present to me." He said all he found to represent the missing $48,000 were a few check stubs marked "not used."

CROWD MARCHES ON CITY HALL TO DEMAND RELIEF

Spokesmen Ordered Out of Aldermanic Chamber and Several in Group Are Arrested.

Several hundred men and women, carrying banners with demands for food, went to City Hall this afternoon, and their representatives called at the Mayor's office and the Board of Aldermen, in weekly session.

Their spokesmen, John Braun and Boris Stevens, read to the Alderman a list of demands. They demanded that a $10,000,000 fund be raised, by cutting the salaries of city officials making more than $2000 a year, reducing the Mayor's office expenses, and discharging unclassified Police Department employees, who were declared to be "stool pigeons." This fund, the spokesmen said, should be administered by the city's unemployed. The committee was ordered from the chamber. One man was arrested and several others became involved in scuffles with policemen.

HOOVER GREETED POLAR FLYER

Lincoln Ellsworth to Receive Congressional Medal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Lincoln Ellsworth, American explorer, visited the White House today to receive the gold medal voted by Congress following his Polar flight in 1925 and 1926. He was invited to lunch with the President and Mrs. Hoover.

In 1922 Congress voted special gold medals to Ellsworth, Roald Amundsen and Umberto Nobile. Both participated with Ellsworth in the trans-Polar flight in 1926. Nobile has never been to the United States to receive the medal, and Amundsen was lost in the Arctic wastes in a search for part of Nobile's party lost when the Italian dirigible was wrecked on another Polar flight. President Hoover received in the name of the Nation the American flag which Ellsworth took over the top of the world from King's Bay to Point Arrow, Alaska.

'50 PCT. BENHAM' FACES INQUIRY INTO HIS BUSINESS

State's Attorney at Belvidere, Ill., Says Grand Jury Probably Will Investigate Finance Scheme.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BELVIDERE, Ill., Jan. 16.—State's Attorney A. J. Strom of Boone County said today that he believed the grand jury, to convene Jan. 26, would wish to look into the dealings of Albert W. Benham, with whom many residents of this and adjoining counties have invested their savings. Current reports are that Benham is paying 20 to 50 per cent interest to the holders of his short-time judgment notes.

The State's Attorney said he had made inquiry into Benham's business operations and had not thus far found evidence of real estate or mercantile dealings which would furnish a basis for the amount of money he professes to have invested for his clients.

Benham has been receiving investments for more than a year, and the State's Attorney says that $100,000 would be a moderate estimate of the present volume. Local bankers have complained of the withdrawals of $10,000 from the banks here have appeared to be due to the desire of depositors to invest their money with Benham.

Monday is Benham's business day, and on that day his customers call at a small garage on the main street of Belvidere, where he accepts their money, giving them his short-term notes as security, and pays the interest reputed to be several times the regular rate. Monday is also the day when a money truck runs between Chicago and Belvidere, a distance of 78 miles, making several stops.

Benham, 46 years old, is a former shipping clerk in a local factory, and his first customers were his fellow employees. Now the investors are coming from various towns in Northern Illinois, Rockford, Kankakee, Joliet and Elgin, and from Chicago. Benham recently organized the Blackhawk Finance Co. in Rockford, and the Winnebago County grand jury is about to undertake an inquiry there. Another investigation is understood to be under way in Chicago.

No Evidence of Fraud Found. Investigators, working from Chicago, are said to have found no direct evidence of fraud, or of violation of the State blue sky laws. They are working on the theory that "Fifty Per Cent Benham," as he is called, is part of a group with headquarters in Chicago.

Benham has declared that the county prosecutors and other officials can investigate his business affairs. He has refused to answer questions of reporters.

ARMOUR CO. HEAD
KILLED IN FALL
FROM 7TH FLOOR

F. Edson White Plunges From Window in Chicago Apartment—Vertigo Victim, Inquest Verdict.

HAD BEEN SLIGHTLY HURT AT DINNER

Began With Packing Firm as a Car Checker, Having Previously Worked With Father in Peoria.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—F. Edson White, 57 years old, president of Armour & Co., packers, was killed last night in a fall from a bedroom window on the seventh floor of an apartment building. Just before the tragedy he had been chatting with Mrs. White, her sister, Miss Kathleen Pierson, and Philip Reed, treasurer of Armour & Co.

He suddenly left them and walked into a bedroom accompanied by Reed. The latter left him there and a few minutes later Miss Pierson walked into the hall and saw that the bedroom door was open and the room unoccupied. Miss Pierson ran to the street and there found Mr. White's body.

A coroner's jury decided today White's death was accidental and that his fall was the result of an attack of vertigo. The verdict was reached five minutes after the evidence had been heard.

Friend's Version of Accident. "Wednesday night," Reed said, "Mr. White attended a dinner of the executive club for his company at the packing plant restaurant. When he arose to deliver his talk all the others rose, and there was much cheering and crowding. "Mr. White's chair was on a speaker's platform, raised 18 inches from the floor. In some manner he lost his balance and fell to the floor, landing on his head. He was not seriously hurt, if it was thought, as he continued with the dinner. But Thursday he complained of a headache and decided to stay home."

"In the evening, when I arrived at the apartment, he was still complaining that he wasn't feeling well. I recall particularly that he spoke of the apartment being overheated. He did considerable walking about."

White, who had accompanied White to the bedroom. The latter took a seat on a bench seat covering a low radiator. Reed left him there. The windows were open.

"I believe," said Reed, "that he either became faint and leaned over or stooped over to get a breath of air and fell."

Began as Car Checker. White was chosen president of Armour & Co. in 1923. He began as a car checker, from which he was promoted to district manager, later director, then vice president, and finally president.

He was born in Peoria, Ill., Sept. 9, 1873. His first job was with his father in the cattle business in Peoria. From Peoria he went to San Francisco, where he won rapid advancement with the Western Meat Co. before coming to Chicago.

White, who is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. William M. Spencer and Mrs. Allan J. Thompson, the director of several large banks.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone officiating. Burial will be private, at Lake Forest cemetery.

SENATE TO FIND OUT
WHY BREAD PRICE STAYS UP WITH WHEAT DOWN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Senate today adopted without debate a resolution for investigation of the reasons for the failure of the price of bread to reflect the decline in the price of wheat and flour. Inquiry also would be made to ascertain whether the price of bread are at the present level because of "combination in restraint of trade."

It said the price of wheat and flour had undergone a precipitate decline during the last year, that the price of bread had not gone down in proportion; that the price of whole wheat flour was now higher than that of white flour and the price of brown and unrefined sugars was now higher than that of white and refined sugars.

BANK OF U. S. PAID $34,000
TO MRS. STEUER AFTER CLOSING

Wife of Man Investigating Crash Withdrew $54,170 of $55,052 Account.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—As Max D. Steuer prepared yesterday to take over his work as investigator of the affairs of the Bank of the United States, it became known that his wife, Mrs. Bertha Steuer, had, on Dec. 10, the last day the bank was open, withdrawn $54,170 of the $55,052 on credit to her account.

Almost $34,000 was paid in cash to Mrs. Steuer by the bank at its main office, 535 Fifth avenue, after this office had closed its doors for the day at 3 o'clock. All the branches suffered heavy withdrawals that day. The following day the State Banking Department took charge of the bank and closed it.

Steuer issued a statement confirming the main facts and attributing circulation of reports about his wife's withdrawals to sources opposed to him as the bank's investigator. He said his wife took action on advice of the Bankers' Trust Co.

The City Board of Estimate provided $100,000 today for Steuer's investigation of the bank.

POWER BOARD REINSTATES
ONE OF TWO OUSTED AIDS

Dismissal of Men Led to President's Clash With Senate Over Nominations.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Power Commission today reinstated William V. King as chief accountant, but refused to re-employ Charles A. Russell, who was dismissed last month as solicitor.

Dismissal of the two men last month precipitated an attack in the Senate on the Power Commission and led to a resolution asking President Hoover to resign the nominations of three of the commissioners. The President declined. Senators charged the action of Chairman Smith and Commissioners Draper and Garsaud indicated they were dominated by power interests.

The commission said, in dismissing the men with the privilege of applying for reinstatement, that it was done because of internal friction.

King was reinstated by a unanimous vote after he had explained at length to the commission his accounting methods. Commissioner McNinch was absent, but it was announced he would have concurred.

FOOD RELIEF
LOAN STAND GETS HOOVER
'INTO A JAM'

Rejects $15,000,000 and Robinson Maneuvers Him Into Facing $25,000,000 'Dole' or Possible Extra Session of Congress.

ONE SENATOR COULD HAVE CHECKED MOVE

$45,000,000 Drouth Bill for Seed, Feed and Fertilizer Signed and Money Will Begin Going Out Within a Week.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—It looks as if the Administration has got itself into a serious jam through its refusal to accept the $15,000,000 food loan amendment which the Senate vainly sought to attach to the $45,000,000 drouth relief bill.

Today the President was confronted with definite notice from the Democratic-insurgent Republican forces that he would have to choose between a new food provision, calling for $10,000,000 more than the original, and an extra session of Congress. There is nothing the President wants so little as an extra session.

The food amendment which the President turned down would have authorized the granting of loans to needy farmers for the purchase of food. The Administration, with Secretary Hyde as spokesman, said that such a provision would be "dangerously near" to a dole system.

What now faces the President is an amendment offered by Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, which calls merely for something coming close to a dole, but for an outright dole. It calls, moreover, for $15,000,000, but for $25,000,000. The money would be appropriated for the Red Cross from the Federal Treasury and would supplement whatever the Red Cross may raise from voluntary contributions.

Shrewd Parliamentary Maneuver. By shrewd parliamentary maneuvering, Robinson yesterday got the amendment attached as a rider to the pending Interior Department appropriation bill. Its passage thereby became such that it could be adopted by a simple majority vote—and Robinson predicted that it would be adopted.

Robinson's request to have the amendment hooked to the Interior bill could have been defeated by the objection of one Senator and in that case he would have been compelled to muster the two-thirds majority required for suspension of the rule. It was significant that no Senator objected. Smoot of Utah gave signs of so doing but, after consultation with some of his Old Guard colleagues, announced his support for the amendment. Robinson demand. No voice was raised in behalf of the Administration position.

Robinson previously had said he would insist on the amendment even at the risk of defeating the bill to which it might be attached. He expressed himself, in effect, as thoroughly sick of seeing the Senate march up to legislative hill and then turn back to the House in compliance with the orders of the President and the House.

Co-operation Program Smashed. His leadership in the new controversy smashed whatever was left of the "co-operation" program with which the session opened and of which Robinson was one of the leading proponents. Robinson's attitude is that "you can't co-operate with a man who is walking away from you."

The Interior Department bill carries $69,000,000 and is one of the major supply measures which must go into effect by July 1 in order to provide funds for the Government's expenses during the next fiscal year.

If the Robinson amendment goes through the Senate and the House as a part of the Interior Department bill, the President can kill the food appropriation only by a veto of the entire bill. That would leave the administration in exactly the same predicament as if the bill had been destroyed in a deadlock between the two branches of Congress.

"Embarrassed Because of Want," Senator Black (Dem.), Alabama, sponsored with Robinson the $15,000,000 relief proposal, commenting on Red Cross officials' report that Senate proposals of Federal relief hurt their campaign, said

UNDECIDED WHAT TO DO ABOUT TRY PROTECTION STORY

District Attorney Brewer Unable to Say Whether He Will Call Bootleggers Before Grand Jury.

FEDERAL PROCEDURE VERY COMPLICATED

Crystal City Man Asserts Alleged Collector Informed Investigators 'They'd Have to Prove It'

Despite the willingness of two Jefferson County bootleggers to tell a Federal grand jury that they paid $2000 for "protection" that stopped when they were unable to continue payments, United States District Attorney Brewer is unable, he asserted today, to say whether they will be called before the grand jury.

The bootleggers, as was told exclusively in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, are John M. Batchelor and his son, George, of Crystal City, Mo. The elder Batchelor has made affidavit that he gave $2700 and his son, $1200, to a petty local official, who said he was collecting for a Federal prohibition agent. Both liquor sellers have asserted that they discussed payments with the agent in question, pleading vainly for a reduction in the fixed rate of $100 a month.

Investigation Hard to Get. Brewer expressed that under rules of the Department of Justice a definite and complicated procedure must be followed before a grand jury can investigate charges against any person, including the first step is an investigation by two special agents of the Department of Justice. They will then make detailed reports to the Department at Washington and to the administrator of the district, to which the agent under inquiry is assigned in this case, Col. George Wark, Prohibition Administrator for Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The administrator, after digesting the report of the special agents, is required to send a report with his recommendations to the District Attorney, who, in turn, makes recommendations. The District Attorney, may, if he sees fit, call witnesses in the case before the grand jury to prepare for prosecution.

"Couldn't Get Corroboration." Two separate Federal investigations of Batchelor's charges were made last summer but in each case the matter was dropped because, it was explained to the Post-Dispatch, the investigators could not obtain corroboration for the charges.

A reporter for the Post-Dispatch, in the course of a two-hour visit to De Soto, 15 miles south of Crystal City, Tuesday, found one former bartender who said he frequently had given the agent under inquiry whisky upon the order of his employer; one who said the agent warned him "You'd better close up, because there's going to be a raid here in a few minutes"; a lawyer who said he saw the agent accept $50 for advance information that raids were scheduled in De Soto and who offered to produce four witnesses who would testify before a grand jury concerning payments they made and warnings they received about impending raids.

"You've Got to Prove." Batchelor told the Post-Dispatch he took two special agents of the Department of Justice to the petty local official whom he says he paid. "They questioned him," Batchelor continued, "and he told them, 'You've got to prove it.' However, he did admit to them in my presence that on at least one occasion he had warned me that the prohibition agents were coming down to raid."

So far, no prohibition agent has been prosecuted in this district. The policy of the department has been, when charges against an agent were substantiated by an investigation, to permit the agent to resign, or to dismiss him and explain the action was taken "for the good of the service." Thus, in effect, the only deterrent to dishonesty has been the fear of losing position. The policy has been followed, persons familiar with the department explain, for fear that prosecutions "might hurt the cause, in the eyes of the people."

A short time ago, when a drugist complained that a prohibition agent demanded $200 and received $100, on the threat, "If you don't pay I'll turn in an unfavorable report on you about your whisky dispensations," the agent was permitted to resign and the drugist's whisky and alcohol permits were taken from him.

Federal agents who investigated this case testified at the hearing when the drugist's permits were revoked, that the agent had confessed soliciting the bribe, but had returned it to the drugist after the complaint was filed. The agent also confessed soliciting and accepting two other bribes from drugists. After he had been permitted to leave the department, the drugists were cited to show cause why their permits should not be revoked. Their cases are pending.

Another case in point is that of the prohibition agent who swore in his application for the post, that he never had been arrested. Later, it developed that he had a record of 10 arrests and had been sentenced to the City Workhouse on

How the Farmer May Obtain Federal Drouth Relief Loan

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. THIS is how the farmer in the drouth or storm area may obtain a loan from the $45,000,000 emergency appropriation.

He makes application to the community or county committee set up under the seed loan administration. This committee, usually consisting of three prominent citizens representing farming, banking and business interests, assists him in filling out his application and promissory note.

The committee then sends the collateral paper together with its recommendations to the regional field office of the seed loan bureau. At this office the amount which the farmer may receive is determined.

When the application is approved, the farmer is sent a voucher for the amount of his loan, or an installment of the total amount, the balance to be paid as needed.

The loan is made on a promissory note bearing 5 per cent interest and is secured by a crop mortgage or lien.

Loans can be made for purchase of buying feed for work stock, seed and fertilizer and for farm machinery fuel for putting in the crop.

In counties where committees have not yet been set up, the work of forming is proceeding.

they were embarrassed "because the people have no money to give. They are embarrassed because there is no such institution as want. The Red Cross is just giving destitute families of six a ration a week and the organization gives no promise of giving more."

Senator Robinson told the Senate the complaints were made to "embarrass passage of this relief."

Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, today presented a unanimous consent agreement, the adoption of which he will ask for tomorrow, calling for a session of the Senate this week, beginning Monday.

In the meantime agricultural agencies are getting set to distribute the $45,000,000 loan fund for seed and supplies needed in human food. The money is to begin going out within a week. The fund came just in time, said the Red Cross, for thousands of miles and cows are threatened with starvation unless food is furnished at once. In Arkansas, officials reported, the stock is in worse fix even than human beings. Animals already are dying.

Two bills to help. Notices from two cities in Washington—Spokane and Tacoma—that they could not meet the Red Cross appeal and supply their own relief needs, too, were read in the Senate today.

Sponsors of the pending $25,000,000 appropriation for the Red Cross seized upon this as supporting their demands for Federal aid. Senator Joseph (Rep.), Washington, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, read the telegram to the Senate. One was from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce and the other from the Mayor of Tacoma. Both said the cities were raising their own relief funds and were able to take care of conditions in their localities. Senator Borah said: "I presume that situation prevails in all the cities throughout the country."

Making Loans by Next Week. Dr. C. W. Warburton, secretary of the National Drouth Relief Committee, said that "without doubt, we will be making loans next week." He said that, under the language of the relief resolution passed, production loans could not be made to stockmen. The language of the measure specifies that feed loans be limited to work stock.

That recommendation was made, Warburton said, "largely because that followed lines of previous legislation and because the Agricultural Department does not favor the extension of loans for new purposes."

Dr. Warburton said today the Memphis, Tenn., office of the Seed Loan Bureau would be open Monday. The director expected that the St. Louis office would be opened on that date also, although he had received no definite word to that effect. The St. Louis office will make loans in Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

SENATE PROPOSALS HURT RED CROSS APPEAL FOR FUNDS, HOOVER IS TOLD

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. OFFICIALS of the American Red Cross informed President Hoover today the organization is being seriously embarrassed in its appeal for a $10,000,000 drouth-relief fund by proposals in the Senate that Congress appropriate and give money to the Red Cross.

The President delayed lunch for half an hour to discuss the situation. Those present were Chairman Payne of the Red Cross; Secretary of Commerce Lamont; Under Secretary Mills and Assistant Secretary Hope of the Treasury, all members of the Red Cross Central Committee.

They reported unfavorable reaction to the appeal for funds, because of the proposed relief measures in the Senate, had been registered in several cities, particularly Philadelphia and Boston.

cattle would die of starvation in Arkansas unless feed was furnished at once came yesterday to the Red Cross. Dr. William de Kleine, national medical director of the organization, telegraphed from St. Louis that the situation for animals is even more critical than for humans. In one small section of one county we had verified reports of some 20 dead mules. I personally saw four of them.

All but nine of all sorts of livestock in Arkansas and one-third of those of Kentucky were said to be receiving food from the Red Cross. These two states are hardest hit, but the distress has extended to 323 counties in 21 states.

Chairman John Barton Payne has announced that 405,000 persons are now being cared for. Cash grants, he said, have totaled $619,781.80 and total expenditures for all types of aid $1,552,837.54.

Fearing increasing illness with winter weather, Payne dispatched the national medical director to Arkansas, with instructions to go into all the other critical drouth centers as rapidly as possible.

Dr. de Kleine's first health report received was that conditions in Arkansas had been good because of exceptionally warm weather, but that, if the cold weather should continue very long, the health situation "may become very serious."

Plenty of good nourishing food and warm clothes are needed. "Above everything else, the critical situation," he said, adding that Red Cross chapters have been providing pure powdered yeast for control of pellagra and medicines for the sick.

"Physicians everywhere are giving their services most willingly where necessary," Dr. de Kleine said. "From Kentucky a Red Cross field worker writes: 'But cold intensified suffering of drouth-stricken farmers in Kentucky mountains and those in small towns made dependent by drouth situation. Several hundred drouth sufferers, including farm wives with children in arms, flocked to the relief headquarters, reporting in many instances they had sold their last few chickens or stock, and after helping out their neighbors who were less fortunate, all came together to the Red Cross. Estimates are that 6000 families, or about 24,500 persons, were being fed in Kentucky.'

$20 Holdup on Street Car. J. D. Adams, conductor of a one-man street car, was held up at 4300 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, last midnight, by two men who fled with $20.

DAVIS REITERATES PERSONAL OUTLAY WAS ONLY $10,640

Pennsylvanian Tells Committee It Is Unjust to Charge Him With $633,148 Primary Total.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania, reiterated before the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee today he had spent only $10,640 of his personal funds to obtain the Republican nomination and said it was utterly unjust to charge him the total expenditure in behalf of the ticket he headed.

"I have never been charged with corruption or dishonesty in my life," Davis said. "I have used all my power an attempt to charge me with such an expenditure." Davis read his statement after Chairman Nye had placed in a records tabulation showing $633,148 expenditures in behalf of the Brown-Davis ticket in the primary and $494,739 in the general election.

The Pennsylvania inquiry was resumed after the Senate this morning had agreed unanimously to the Nye resolution appropriating $50,000 to continue the campaign fund investigation. Senator Moore (Rep.), New Hampshire, who announced yesterday he would object, was silent today.

About half of the Pennsylvania delegation of 36 in the House met today and adopted a resolution declaring "unwarranted and unjust" the attempt of Senator Nye to charge all expenditures made by and in behalf of more than 20,000 candidates on the State ticket to Senator Davis.

It was well known in Pennsylvania, the resolution said, that the "real contest" was for Governor and that "these expenditures would have been incurred in the State's of politicians and not in the State's of a candidate for United States Senate in such primary and election."

It was their belief, the Pennsylvania members said, that for the nomination and election of Senator Davis "there was no necessity for the expenditure of any large sum of money."

"TIME TO TAKE PROHIBITION OUT OF POLITICIANS' HANDS" Bishop Moushon Says No One Knows Whether Hoover Is a Wet or a Dry.

By the Associated Press. CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 15.—Bishop Edwin D. Moushon of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, said today the time had come to "take prohibition out of the hands of politicians and put it back in the hands of its friends." He supported Hoover in 1928.

Speaking at a prohibition celebration he challenged President Hoover's statement that "prohibition is a noble experiment."

"The Wickersham commission," he said, "has been accused of being a kite-flier for the President to see how the wind of public opinion is blowing and there is much truth in those accusations. Herbert Hoover has been in office two years and not yet does he publicize whether he is a wet or a dry."

LINGLE SUSPECT'S ATTORNEYS REPORT IRON-CLAD ALIBI

Assert Leo V. Brothers Was Hurt in Accident Few Days Before Killing and Wore Bandages.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Attorneys for Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, under indictment for the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, June 8, last, announced today that they had an "alibi, iron-clad and complete" for their client.

"We have been seeking to determine Brothers' whereabouts on June 8, 1930, ever since we were given an opportunity of talking with him," attorney Cyril Krum said. "Betty Cook, Brothers' wife, and I sat in the county jail to grope our way back to June 8."

"Finally, because Memorial day, May 30, is slightly more than a week before that date, Brothers and Betty were able to place the date."

"We now have an alibi which, to our mind, is absolutely iron-clad and complete."

"Brothers received medical attention a few days before June 8. He had been in an accident and suffered a deep cut on his face. 'We found the physician who treated the wound,' the attorneys declared, 'unwarranted and unjust' the attempt of Senator Nye to charge all expenditures made by and in behalf of more than 20,000 candidates on the State ticket to Senator Davis."

It was well known in Pennsylvania, the resolution said, that the "real contest" was for Governor and that "these expenditures would have been incurred in the State's of politicians and not in the State's of a candidate for United States Senate in such primary and election."

WAR VETERAN WHO KILLED MAN AS A TRAITOR DIES BREMEN, Jan. 15.—Former Sergeant-Major Fahbusch, who served in the German army at the front during the World War and also fought against Polish insurgents in Upper Silesia in 1921, was found dead from heart failure here yesterday in his motor boat.

Some time ago Fahbusch killed one of his countrymen whom he regarded as a traitor and fled to America, where he bought a farm. Two years ago the German Government obtained his extradition, but last October he was released under a Government amnesty. He had planned to return to the United States where his wife and five-year-old son are still living on his farm. Fahbusch was 38 years old. The Steel Helmet organization will take charge of his funeral.

5 CALLED IN MOON MOTOR CO. STOCK JUGGLING INQUIRY

Alleged to Have Inflated Price From $6 to $15 by Selling to Each Other, Then Unloading.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—On motion of Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr., Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong of Brooklyn, has signed an order requiring the presence in court on Jan. 23 of five persons for examination concerning stock transactions of the Moon Motor Co. of St. Louis.

All books and records relating to the promotion of the company's securities also were included in the order.

Those summoned are Charles S. Rich, Leonard J. Rollnick, William L. Jarvis and "John" and "Richard" Doe.

Assistant Attorney-General Washburn, who retires today as head of the Bureau of Securities, stated that numerous witnesses and documents had been examined and individuals prior to an action under the State Martin act.

The inquiry centers on an alleged manipulation of the company's stock in which those named were involved. According to the charges, Rich, Rollnick and Jarvis, aided by the editor of the "Wall Street Era," a magazine, carried out a scheme to inflate the price of Moon stock, buying and selling to one another in what is known as "washing." They then notified various buyers that trading was active in the stock and sold considerable amounts at inflated prices.

According to the suit, the defendants had an option on the majority of shares at $6 and sold it for as high as $15. After a period in March and April, after the defendants allegedly made huge profits, the price declined to $1 a share, Washburn said.

Receivership Not Affected by Alleged Stock Juggling. The Moon Motor Car Co., 4400 North Main street, has been in the hands of Seneca C. Taylor as receiver since Nov. 16 and is being liquidated. Taylor said the receivership is not affected by the alleged stock juggling.

MEXICAN REBEL CHIEF AND WIFE RECONCILED

GEN. JOSE GONZALES ESCOBAR.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A petition calling upon Congress to place a tariff upon petroleum to limit imports to 20 per cent of the 1928 imports was adopted late today by the Governor's Oil Refining Conference. The petition, which will be sent to the House and Senate and to the Congressional delegations of the oil producing states was prepared by a committee headed by Senator-elect Gurnea (Dem.), Oklahoma.

In effect it asks for a partial embargo upon crude oil from foreign countries and that approximately 80 per cent of imports be barred for at least a year.

Secretary Mellon was also present at the conference. Tom Crankill of Dallas, Tex., said Mellon was the guiding spirit of the Gulf Oil Co. Extensive imports of oil from Mexico have been possible for the plight of the industry he contended.

"Pull off the false whiskers of the Gulf company and you will find the face of Uncle Sam," he said. "We will support the Gulf company with an effort to drive Texas out of the oil business and to establish a system of its own. He said part of the industry's troubles were its own fault because "we sell by what the big companies slowly get control of the oil world."

Harold M. McGugin, Republican Representative-elect from the Third Kansas District, today made the case for the petroleum conference that unless Congress passes a tariff on oil at this session, he called an extra session to vote on a tariff he would vote with the Democrats to organize the session.

Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, told the conference the only remedy for the plight of the industry was a compact between oil-producing states limiting production.

He made several suggestions for such a compact, similar and in some cases, duplicates of proposals made at the Colorado State Governors' conference in 1928, in which he urged full conservation of "irrecoverable natural resources."

Wilbur, who made no comment on the tariff question, said that the time for the petroleum industry to look the facts in the face, "play fair with the consumer and itself" and determine the best remedy.

"Old Dr. Price, working with the law of supply and demand," he said, "is going to determine the machinery and outcome of the oil world, but that determination must not lead to disaster."

GOVERNORS' SESSION

ASKS FOR OIL TARIFF

Asks for Partial Embargo Texan Blames Mellon for Producers' Distress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A petition calling upon Congress to place a tariff upon petroleum or limit imports to 20 per cent of the 1923 imports was adopted late today by the Governor's Oil Refiner Conference. The petition, which will be sent to the House and the Senate and to the Congressional delegations of the oil producing states was prepared by a committee headed by Senator-elect George (Dem.), Oklahoma.

In effect it asks for a partial embargo upon crude oil from foreign countries and that approximately 80 per cent of imports be barred for several years.

Secretary Mellon was attacked today at the conference. Tom R. Cranfill of Dallas, Tex., said Mellon was the guiding spirit of the Gulf Oil Co. Extensive imports by that company were largely responsible for the plight of the industry, he contended.

"Pull off the false whiskers of the Gulf company and you will find the face of 'Uncle Andy' Mellon," he said.

He charged the Gulf company with an effort to drive Texas independent producers out of business by establishing a distributing system of its own. He said part of the industry's troubles were its own fault because "we sat by while the big companies slowly got control of the oil world."

Harold M. McGugin, Republican Representative-elect from the Third Kansas District, today notified the Governor's oil relief conference that unless Congress passed a tariff on oil at this session or called an extra session to vote on a tariff he would vote with the Democrats to organize the next House.

Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, told the conference the only lasting remedy for the plight of the industry was a complete ban on oil-producing states limiting production.

He made several suggestions for such a compact, similar and in some cases, duplicates of proposals made at the Colorado Springs Governors' conference in 1923, in which he urged full conservation of "irrecoverable" natural resources.

Wilbur, who made no comment on the tariff question, said now was the time for the petroleum industry to look the facts in the face, "play fair with the consumer and itself" and determine the best remedy.

"Old Dr. Price, working under the law of supply and demand," he said, "is going to determine the machinery and outcome of the result, but that determination need not lead to disaster."

At the close of the hearing, Justice of the Peace Opts reduced Pearl Abernathy's bond from $30,000 to $15,000, and it was promptly signed by Mrs. T. M. Sayman, wife of a soap manufacturer, and Morris Stern, a furniture dealer. Sayman and Stern had signed the previous bond, but it was said Sayman was out of the city today.

Bond for Charles Abernathy on the kidnapping charge remains at $30,000. He is also held in default of $50,000 on a charge of first degree robbery when armed with a deadly weapon, a capital charge based upon the fact that he held up the Orthwein boy and boy Yowell, the Orthwein chauffeur, at the point of a pistol and took $450 from Yowell before putting him out of the machine and driving away with the boy.

Witnesses for both State and defense reiterated at the preliminary hearing the statement previously made that no ransom was paid or promised for the return of the Orthwein boy to his parents.

The lady's father told on the witness stand of receiving a telephone call about 1 o'clock New Year's afternoon from the elder Abernathy in pursuance of which Orthwein, Harry Troll, a lawyer friend, and August A. Busch Jr., the kidnapped boy's uncle, met Abernathy and Frieda Robbs in the Sheriff's office at Clayton an hour later.

Orthwein described the elder Abernathy as upset and tremulous. He said the Negro told him he was getting as "one father to another" in arranging for the return of the boy unharmed. He declared no demand was made for reward and he promised none.

PROMISE OF RANSOM

Bond of Elder Abernathy Is Reduced From $30,000 to $15,000 and Is Immediately Provided.

Charles Y. Abernathy, Negro real estate dealer and confessed kidnaper of 13-year-old Adolphus Busch Orthwein, and his father, Pearl Orthwein, were ordered held for the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Opts at Jennings today, at the close of a preliminary hearing on warrants charging kidnapping.

Frieda Robbs, niece of the elder Abernathy, also charged in a warrant with complicity in the kidnapping was ordered discharged. The Orthwein boy was kidnapped New Year's eve at the entrance to the Huntleigh Village country place of his father, Percy J. Orthwein, and was held captive for 20 hours before his release was arranged by the elder Abernathy and Frieda Robbs.

At the close of the hearing, Justice of the Peace Opts reduced Pearl Abernathy's bond from $30,000 to $15,000, and it was promptly signed by Mrs. T. M. Sayman, wife of a soap manufacturer, and Morris Stern, a furniture dealer. Sayman and Stern had signed the previous bond, but it was said Sayman was out of the city today.

Bond for Charles Abernathy on the kidnapping charge remains at $30,000. He is also held in default of $50,000 on a charge of first degree robbery when armed with a deadly weapon, a capital charge based upon the fact that he held up the Orthwein boy and boy Yowell, the Orthwein chauffeur, at the point of a pistol and took $450 from Yowell before putting him out of the machine and driving away with the boy.

Witnesses for both State and defense reiterated at the preliminary hearing the statement previously made that no ransom was paid or promised for the return of the Orthwein boy to his parents.

The lady's father told on the witness stand of receiving a telephone call about 1 o'clock New Year's afternoon from the elder Abernathy in pursuance of which Orthwein, Harry Troll, a lawyer friend, and August A. Busch Jr., the kidnapped boy's uncle, met Abernathy and Frieda Robbs in the Sheriff's office at Clayton an hour later.

Orthwein described the elder Abernathy as upset and tremulous. He said the Negro told him he was getting as "one father to another" in arranging for the return of the boy unharmed. He declared no demand was made for reward and he promised none.

Troll, the chauffeur, told how he was stopped by Abernathy as he drove the car out of the Orthwein drive into Lindbergh boulevard. He identified Abernathy as the man who held him up, took the money, put him out of the Orthwein car and drove away with the boy.

Attorney Troll testified that during the conference at Clayton Orthwein asked Abernathy if his boy had been harmed by his captor.

"If your boy is killed," he quoted Abernathy as saying, "I will shoot my own son right here."

At the close of the conference, Troll testified, he, Orthwein and Abernathy and Frieda Robbs drove to the home of Charles Abernathy at 712 Bismark avenue, Webster grove. The Negroes went into the house, he said, and later Frieda Robbs returned with the boy. Previous accounts by Troll and the elder Abernathy have had it that the boy was returned to his father as the latter waited for him on Bacon avenue in Webster grove.

Pearl Abernathy repeated the story he told after he had been arrested in connection with the case, that he became suspicious when he read in a newspaper a description of the kidnaper's automobile. Later his suspicions were confirmed by a report from Charles' wife that her husband was acting strangely. Then he said he began to make arrangements to recover the boy.

As Troll and Orthwein had done, he denied that ransom was paid or promised. He also denied a statement previously attributed to him that he had borrowed $20 or $25 from Orthwein, Troll or Busch during the conference at Clayton.

$2,516,000 'WRITE UP' IN SALE

OF POWER FIRM QUESTIONED

Explanation of Washington Company's Deal Fails to Satisfy

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A "write up" of $2,516,000 included in $6,000,000 paid by the Washington Water Power Co. to the American Power & Light Co. for properties of the Inland Power & Light Co., the Kootenai Power Co., and the Consumers' Water Co. was described today by the Federal Trade Commission.

Edwin T. Harris, commission accountant, was on the stand at the second day of the inquiry into the financial affairs of the Washington company, a subsidiary of American Power & Light, which is a member of the Electric Bond & Share group.

The "write up" represented an excess on the books of the Washington company over the value of the properties as set forth in the books of the three companies.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Robert E. Healy, counsel for the commission, told the presiding commissioner he was dissatisfied with the explanation of the "write up" as presented. He said further explanation would be asked. Final testimony concerning the Washington company was postponed indefinitely.

Inquiry into the affairs of the Alabama Power Co. will be made beginning Jan. 27.

Robert H. Hunter, Chicago insurance dealer, who named The Principia, St. Louis school for children of Christian Scientists, as the ultimate legatee of half his estate, valued at $1,000,000, was the father of Miss Ruth Hunter, 20 years old, a former student at the St. Louis school.

Hunter left his estate in trust for the benefit of his wife and daughter. Upon Mrs. Hunter's death half of the estate will go to The Principia, and, if the daughter dies without heirs, her half of the estate will go to the University of Chicago for a scholarship fund.

Hunter, who was 61 years old and president of the Rollins-Burroughs-Hunter Co., died of heart disease in the LaSalle Street railroad station, Chicago. Due to an error in telegraphic transmission, he was described erroneously in yesterday's Post-Dispatch as Robert Himter.

PRINCE OF WALES ON

WAY TO SOUTH AMERICA

By the Associated Press.

LE BOURGET, France, Jan. 15.—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, landed here this afternoon after a flight from the Hendon Airport, England, on the first stage of their 18,000-mile journey to South America.

The flight was made in the Prince's private Moth plane. E. L. Fielden was the pilot.

From Paris the two Princes and their entourage will proceed Saturday to Santander, Spain, where they will board the liner Orpesa, in which they will cross the Atlantic.

The Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester were at the London airport to bid their brothers good-bye.

The British heir's chief task will be the opening of the British Empire Trade Exhibition at Buenos Aires March 14. This, however, is only the main item in a program the entire purpose of which is to further British commercial ends.

The Prince has spent several hours studying Spanish, in interviewing business men returned from South America and in general making a close study of the problems which he will be called on to face.

The liner Orpesa carries a stock of bright green beer brewed in Edinburgh, especially laid in for the Prince of Wales. It is a light lager and described as palatable but a trifle sweet.

Of the 50 passengers, 19 were injured—four seriously enough to require hospital attention. Seven of the injured are women. The train was running slowly.

Passengers were knocked from their feet by the impact. A sheet of blue flame shot up from the track and the lights went out. Women screamed and the smoke of burning insulation filled the cars.

Thief Fires Shot at Floor When Manager of Nanking Inn Hesitates in Opening Cash Register.

Eight holdups in which robbers armed with deadly weapons obtained $141 were reported today by police.

When Fred Setto, manager of Nanking Inn, 715 Washington avenue, hesitated in surrendering the contents of his cash register, a robber fired a shot at the floor and escaped with $50. Police reported that David A. Hutton, Deputy Sheriff of Lake County, Ill., who was armed, was in the restaurant.

Mrs. Marietta Wilson, who conducts a confectionery at 1929 South Broadway, was choked and beaten by one of two men who held her up for $25.

After he had been struck on the head with a pistol and robbed of $3 and his overcoat, near Nineteenth and Carr streets, Albert Hutchison, 2307A Division street, found a policeman and shortly after pointed out a Negro in the neighborhood as the robber. The prisoner denied the charge but was held for questioning.

Other holdups: Filling station, Thirty-ninth street and Russell boulevard, $12; confectionery of David Sonnenchein, 3315 School street, $8; John Manna, 1415 Dillon street, $25; Ray Mangum, 828 North Taxes County, $25; East St. Louis, in front of 1844 Division street, $5; bakery of Mrs. Fannie Rodgers, 16 South Euclid avenue, $15.

Police are investigating the theft of $400 last night from a safe at the Columbia Towel & Linen Co., 3337 Finney avenue. They said the combination had been worked.

Mrs. C. A. Holcomb, wife of a druggist, attempted to wrest a shotgun from one of her robbers who entered her husband's store, Mayfair drive and West Florissant avenue, Jennings last night. "The robber pushed Mrs. Holcomb away and took $20 worth of cigars and candy," police said.

The cash register of $6. They fled on foot. Holcomb had locked his store when the men knocked on the door and were admitted by Mrs. Holcomb. They produced sawed-off shotguns from beneath their overcoats. The robbers missed $150, which Holcomb had hidden.

Harley Fisher Finds Pair on Road Near State Hospital at Fulton, Mo. — Shoots Them in Dispute.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., Jan. 15.—Harley Fisher, 32 years old, last night shot and killed his estranged wife, Mrs. Pearl Custard Fisher, 27, and Ernest Morris, 22, a former taxicab driver and athlete, on a roadway near the Fulton State Hospital, a few minutes after all of them had left a dance hall opposite the courthouse where they had spent the evening.

After the shooting, which was done with a revolver, Fisher drove back to town and surrendered to Night Chief of Police Orcutter and turned his pistol over to him. Sheriff Owen placed Fisher in the county jail.

Orcutter told newspaper men that Fisher called to his house several times to stay away from his wife, from whom he had been separated for almost a year.

Just before the killing, Morris, Mrs. Fisher, an employee of a laundry, and two other persons, called a taxicab to the dance hall, presumably to go to their homes.

Paul Hook was the driver of the taxi. The party drove out to the hospital road and parked there. They had been there a few minutes when Fisher and his nephew, Garwood Fisher, about 18, drove up in an automobile.

Hook got out of the car to see who it was. Fisher called to his wife to get out of the taxicab. She refused and then Morris stepped out. They got into a dispute and Fisher said, according to the police, that Morris resisted being asked to keep away from Mrs. Fisher. Fisher thereupon shot him. The bullet entered the groin and Morris died on the way to the hospital.

As soon as Morris had been shot, Mrs. Fisher got out of the cab and started to scuffle with her husband. He then shot her, apparently four times.

ALTON PREPARES TO DROP

TROLLEY FOR BUS SYSTEM

Council Expected to Act Following Street Car Company's Refusal to Share Paving Cost.

Plans to substitute busses for street cars in Alton are going forward in view of the unwillingness of the Alton Railway Co. to accept a new franchise requiring it to bear a part of the cost of paving streets used by its tracks.

A committee of the City Council has approved a proposal of the Sims-Hartmann Co. of St. Louis to provide a complete bus service for the city.

The street railway company is ready to remove its cars and tracks from the streets within a reasonable time after being requested to do so by the city, according to Louis H. Egan, president, who also is president of Union Electric Light & Power Co., which owns the Alton Railway Co. Egan said today the street car company would continue its services until the busses were ready to operate.

The Transportation Committee, Mayor Thomas Butler said, would introduce a franchise for the bus company at next week's meeting of the City Council. The company is expected to operate about 15 miles of bus routes and to charge the same fares that are in effect on street cars—10 cents cash, five tickets for 40 cents. It is to install new pneumatic tired busses, each carrying 21 passengers.

Business Declining.

The street car company has about 20 miles of track and 25 passenger cars serving the city of Alton which has a population of 30,142. There is also a large suburban population. Egan attended a meeting of the City Council a few months ago and said that although the company carried about 2,500,000 revenue passengers in 1923 it was losing at the rate of about 100,000 passengers a year.

The company's capitalization is $750,000 common stock, all except the directors' qualifying shares, being owned by Union Electric

30,000 IN NEED OF RED CROSS AID IN MISSOURI ALONE

St. Louis Fund Reaches $20,939 With $220,000 Required—Needs Growing in Many Districts.

Thirty thousand persons are suffering in 27 Missouri counties of the drouth area, which extends northward to within 75 miles of St. Louis, the local Red Cross Chapter of the Red Cross announced today. St. Louis donations for the $10,000,000 American Red Cross fund to prevent suffering and starvation reached a total of $20,939 toward a $220,000 quota. Midwestern Area headquarters here reported contributions of $52,875 toward a quota of $2,940,000 for its 17 states, with hundreds of telegrams arriving today announcing that additional chapters had reached their quotas.

Figures given out at the same time showed needs were growing as rapidly as donations. Cash grants for food and clothing in the six drouth-stricken states of this area, amounted to $138,958 in the first two weeks of this year, as compared to $180,888 for the entire month of December. Reports from 44 representative counties of the 350 where relief is being administered from headquarters here showed that the Red Cross was feeding 59,125 in those counties on Dec. 31, and on Wednesday was feeding 186,540—more than three times as many.

To Prevent Disease. Destitution due to the drouth, which has been described as creeping slowly through the area, yesterday assumed the striking aspect of such disasters as floods and tornadoes. The Red Cross medical director rushed 100 pounds of fresh yeast to England, Ark., to prevent diseases caused by diet deficiencies.

Women at Helena, Ark., were knitting sweaters and sewing garments as in war time. Clothing supplies at the stores had been exhausted. Many persons lacked sufficient clothing to call at local headquarters for supplies. Between 90 and 125 volunteers, white and Negro, were cutting firewood daily in a wood lot donated by a local dealer. Volunteers had built a riprap road into the lot, and donated trucks were hauling the fuel to impoverished homes.

In Mountain Districts. "Conditions are appalling in the mountain districts of Kentucky, but the famine-stricken are too proud to apply for help," national headquarters reported on relief outside this area. "The Red Cross, making a house-to-house canvass, in a radius of 30 miles, found not a fire in a kitchen stove because there was no food to cook and none in prospect until the Red Cross searched these homes out."

Dozens of letters were received from drouth sufferers within the area. An Oklahoma World War veteran with three children wrote, "I am not a bum by any means. This is the second time in my life I ever asked for anything." The first seemed to have been an attempt to obtain food locally, for he concluded, "If you don't have the money, you can't get a sack of flour here."

From the same State a resident wrote, "I must tell you there are families starving and freezing to death." A Southern Illinois farmer related that he had borrowed on crop prospects, and then the crop had failed. His garden had been destroyed by the hot prairie winds and his pastures burned up. He and his wife were subsisting chiefly on the milk of one cow which fed on the stunted stalks left in his cornfield.

Needs for Family of 7. "Our crops were a failure and what little there was has been taken on a loan, leaving us nothing for coal or food," wrote the owner of a 960-acre Montana farm. He estimated his needs as $27 for coal, $40 for clothing and $40 for food—to carry a family of seven through three winter months.

In last night's report Missouri led the 17 states of this area in contributions to drouth relief. The Missouri total to date was $18,655. Illinois followed with $12,000. Other state totals were: Colorado, $1400; Iowa, $6450; Kansas, $3100; Michigan, $1100; New Mexico, $200; North Dakota, $2800; South Dakota, $1500; Texas, $1535; Wisconsin, $2200; Minnesota, $500; Montana, $100; Nebraska, $865; Oklahoma, $100. No report was received from Wyoming. No quota has been set for Arkansas, where relief need is great.

St. Louis gifts of $500 or more included: Mrs. J. F. Shoemaker, $1000; Fordyce, Holliday & White, $500; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dixby, $500; Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, $500; Lenore Scullin Clark, $500; Mr. and Mrs. Bert H. Lang, $500; Florence A. Robles, $500; Pet Milk Co., $500; David P. Wohl, $500; Harry M. Pfleger, $500; Mrs. Edward H. Harkness Gives $100,000 to Red Cross.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Red Cross today announced receipt of $391,000 in its campaign for $10,000,000 for drouth relief. The largest single contribution reported today was $100,000 from Mrs. Edward H. Harkness, New York City. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid gave $5000.

Cash grants in 196 counties totaled $658,199. The amount contributed from the National Red Cross treasury to date for relief in all states was $1,019,637.

EX-CONVICT TAKEN TO IOWA ON HOLDUP MURDER CHARGE

Robert M. Hickman, St. Louis ex-convict, arrested Monday for carrying a concealed weapon, was taken today to Cedar Rapids, Ia., where, according to Prosecuting Attorney Hendrickson, he has been named as the slayer of Thomas Rusk, grocer, in a holdup on Dec. 6.

Hickman waived extradition and denied knowledge of the crime. He admitted he had served a 10-day jail term in Cedar Rapids for carrying concealed weapons, but declared he came to St. Louis immediately after his release on Dec. 6. He also served a penitentiary term for robbery in Missouri prior to that served a reformatory term.

Detectives who stopped him for questioning Monday at Broadway and Barry street reported he threw away a .45-caliber revolver as they approached.

3 MEN DEAD OF GAS; OPEN VERDICTS GIVEN

Fred Engelke, Phillip Honick and John Hoeflinger Are Victims.

Three men were found dead of gas poisoning at various places yesterday, and open verdicts were returned at Coroner's inquests today.

Fred Engelke, 65 years old, was found dead in his room at 1426A North Twelfth street at 1 p. m. Investigation disclosed a roomer downstairs turned off the gas at the meter temporarily to repair a leak. It is thought Engelke failed to notice that the flame of a gas burner was extinguished and was overcome when the gas was turned on by the neighbor.

Phillip Honick, 38, 1814A South Eleventh street, was found dead in his room. A burner of a stove was open but not lighted. Honick was last seen alive Monday.

John Hoeflinger, 52, 2344 Delder street, was found dead in his kitchen near a stove on which a burner was open but not lighted. He had been dead several days.

COMMITTEE TO BEGIN BRUNK INVESTIGATION NEXT WEEK

Under Resolution Report and Recommendations Must Be Filed in 30 Days.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—The Special Committee named by the House to investigate charges against State Treasurer Larry Brunk of alleged irregularities in the handling of State deposits in the defunct Bank of Aurora, and to make a report whether there is sufficient evidence for the House to institute impeachment proceedings, will begin the assembling and examination of evidence next week.

The resolution requires the committee to make its report and recommendations within 30 days.

The committee named by Speaker Nelson held its first meeting yesterday afternoon, and requested Gov. Caulfield to supply it with a complete file of the investigation which resulted in the charges against Brunk.

Representative Stanley P. Clay (Dem.), Jasper County, author of the resolution and chairman of the committee, said the committee did not plan to hold formal hearings. He said it would function in the nature of a grand jury, ascertain the facts, and in no event would carry on a trial of the case.

The committee members appointed are Clay, chairman; Nick Braxton, Johnson County; W. H. Meredith, Butler, and Don C. Carter of Boone, all Democrats; George Heege, St. Louis County; Rush H. Limbaugh, Cape Girardeau, and Edward L. Britain of Greene, Republicans.

FIVE YEARS FOR $38 ROBBERY

Youth, 18, Used Cigarette Case Shaped Like Pistol in Holdup.

Johnny Frink, 18-year-old coffee boy at the Hotel Maryland cafeteria, was sentenced to five years in prison for robbery yesterday when he pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Taylor.

Frink took $38.20 from the cash register of a restaurant at 501 Franklin avenue, where formerly he was employed, using a cigarette case made in imitation of a pistol to intimidate two waiters and two patrons. His sentence was commuted to the State Reformatory at Booneville.

73 LIQUOR CASES IN INDICTMENTS BY U.S. GRAND JURY

80 Persons Named in 121 True Bills—20 Charged With Violations of the Narcotic Law.

The Federal grand jury, in a partial report yesterday, returned 121 indictments, 73 of which charged violations of the liquor laws and named 80 individuals. Most of the liquor-law indictments charged violation of the Jones amendment to the Volstead act, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Twenty men, now under bond, were charged with violations of the narcotic law. They were part of a group of 45 alleged narcotic dealers arrested during a campaign by Federal agents and police in November, when about $14,000 was spent to obtain evidence.

Fourteen suppressed indictments were included in the list, most of them being narcotic cases in which principals are at large. The 20 men whose names were disclosed are: Joseph Dattalo, Sam Randazzo, William Blue, Joseph Costello, John Precoski, Joseph Candela, Charles and Sam Bologna, Ben Bommarito, Sam Vastella, Tony Demma, Sam Leardano, Jack Griffin, Joe Kowalski, Vincent Marchesi, Gus Mishoto, Joseph Roufa, Bruno Buckholtz, William Savignac, John Wisniewski and Edward Mokwa.

Racial disturbances at Ste. Genevieve, Mo., which followed the murder of two white men by Negro robbers in October, resulted in the indictment of six men—Eugene E. Steiger, Joseph Huret, Louis Ryan, Russell Stokely, James O. Crowley and William L. Martin—for threatening and attempting to drive away from his official duties, Louis Ridaux, a Negro mail carrier. Ridaux, who had lived near Ste. Genevieve for 50 years, moved to St. Louis after being threatened.

Another indictment charged Frank Gallini with assaulting two soldiers at Jefferson Barracks. The indictment, first of its kind here, was sought in an effort to stop disorder by private citizens at the military reservation.

Bernard Moro was indicted for perjury on charges that he had said he never was arrested when seeking naturalization, although he had been arrested several times.

Harry Reef, fish dealer at 2150 Lafayette avenue, was indicted for mail fraud in ordering oysters from a Maryland shipper whom he did not pay.

Among the persons indicted for liquor law violations was one of the city's oldest saloonkeepers, Otto Richter, owner of the Homestead Bar at 594 Market street, who was named jointly with his bartender, Joseph de Greef. There were two indictments against a woman, Emily Dausch, 232 East Kraus street.

Others indicted for violation of the Jones amendment are: Joseph Altadona, Broadway and Clinton street; Harvey Ames, 5809A Delmar boulevard; Herman Abein, 8465 Hull's Ferry road; James Abernathy, 1518 Wash street; John Andrews, 126 East Haven street; Paul Baegalupo, 8429 Lindell boulevard; Charles Bertich, 600 North Jefferson avenue; Zack Bolden, 844 Hodiarnont avenue; Joseph Bertusiglio, Theresa and Franklin avenues; George E. Bulter, Broadway and Clark avenue; Lawrence Brewer, Cuba; Thomas Bell, 7716 South Broadway; Tony Bono, 411 North Euclid avenue; Bert Brehm, 6018 Maple avenue; Arthur Baldes, 213 Carr street; Mike Chiara, 3610 Hebert street; Joseph Cafferata, 3193 Gravois avenue; Dominick Cerulo, 6652 Delmar boulevard; John Craddock, 3723 Cook avenue; John Duggan, 1202 South Thirteenth street; John Dobromitsky and Frank Rabbijo, St. Louis County; George E. HENRY HENDRICKS FUNERAL

HELD AT HIGH RIDGE, MO.

Aged Farmer Drove to St. Louis Market in Wagon Once Owned by U. S. Grant.

The funeral of Henry Hendricks, 91 years old, a familiar figure to commission merchants of St. Louis because of the picturesque wagon in which he drove to market, was held at High Ridge, in Jefferson County, yesterday.

Hendricks' wagon, in which he delivered vegetables and poultry products, was originally the property of President Grant, when Grant lived on his Gravois road farm before the Civil War. Hendricks frequently recounted to persons at the market incidents of his meetings with the Civil War commander on Gravois road. He bought the wagon in 1870.

The wagon itself, rapidly falling into disuse in recent years, had been reinforced with baling wire, and its covered top plastered with show bills. It was Hendricks' custom to announce his presence along the road or at the market by playing on a fife.

He died at High Ridge Monday night. Surviving are eight sons and a daughter.

WOMAN DIES FROM POISON

Mrs. Diana Strauss, 30, widow, said to have been despondent. Mrs. Diana Strauss, 30 years old, a widow, died at City Hospital at 5 p. m. yesterday from poison which she drank a short time previously at her home, 4181 Delmar boulevard.

Dayton Merrill, a salesman, 4209 Lindell boulevard, who was in her rooms, told police she drank the poison after discovering that a dress she planned to wear to dinner at a downtown hotel was at the cleaners. From other sources police learned that Mrs. Strauss, a model, had been despondent since the death two years ago of her husband, Jacob Strauss, a cafe owner of East St. Louis, and had frequently threatened to kill herself.

Bank Robbed of $5000.

By the Associated Press. ELKHURST, Ill., Jan. 16.—The York State Bank was robbed of $5000 in cash yesterday by three men who gained entrance through an unlocked door after closing hours. The robbers forced Joe Kelly, cashier; Louis Mowers, assistant cashier, and a customer to lie on the floor while they rifled the cages in a leisurely manner.

BANKER FREED ON 5 COUNTS

Two Other Indictments Pending Against C. W. Settle, Centralia, Mo. Special to the Post-Dispatch. COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 16.—Five indictments against C. W. Settle, cashier of the defunct Farmers and Merchants Bank of Centralia, charging excessive loans, were quashed in Circuit Court here Wednesday by Judge H. A. Collier on grounds of unconstitutionality. The bank failed last summer. Two indictments charging grand larceny and embezzlement are still pending against Settle and a hearing on them has been set for Friday. Informations reiterating the excessive loans charges against Settle were filed by Prosecuting Attorney Franklin E. Reagan, but these also were quashed.

Prosecution of the grand larceny and embezzlement charges against Settle, Reagan said, will be based on a shortage of about $13,000 in municipal funds deposited at the bank by the City of Centralia. This amount, Reagan said, has been restored to the city by Settle's bondsmen, but will not effect prosecution of the case. Reagan announced he will appeal the case involving the excessive loans charges to the State Supreme Court.

ELECTRICAL UNION QUASHES ATTACK ON R. C. HAUSGEN

O. E. Jennings Acts When He Hears Anti-Trust Witness Is Seeking Contempt of Court Citation.

Assistant Attorney-General Richmond C. Coburn was notified today that charges preferred by Electrical Workers' Local Union No. 1 against Roy C. Hausgen, president of the Southwest Electric Co., an important witness in the suit to oust four local electrical organizations for alleged violation of State anti-trust laws, have been withdrawn.

Charges against Hausgen were retracted after Orville E. Jennings, international labor union delegate and director of local union affairs, learned that Coburn was in Jefferson City Wednesday, prepared to inform the Supreme Court of Jennings' act, and seek his citation for contempt of court on the grounds he sought to threaten and intimidate a witness.

In a bill of particulars over Jennings' signature, Hausgen was "indicted" by union officers for violation of union regulations, to which he is subject as the holder of a "withdrawal card" in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which automatically readmits him to union membership if he quits the contracting business and wants to be employed as an active electrician.

Jennings called "the czar." The union's move against Hausgen followed publication of testimony he gave against the defendant organizations, and his disclosure of domineering and arbitrary methods of Chester Chalmers, a contractor, and Jennings, whose recognized power in the local electrical industry has led to his being referred to by contractors as the "czar."

Both Jennings and Chalmers are awaiting trial in Circuit Court, indicted by a grand jury for conspiracy to violate State anti-trust laws, after evidence was produced indicating they had created or controlled the four electrical associations here for their own personal profit.

Assistant Attorneys-General John B. Edwards and Coburn said that withdrawal of the charges technically "purged" Jennings of contempt, and therefore efforts to have him cited would be abandoned.

Robert Otto, former Attorney-General, who is counsel for Jennings, admitted he had advised Jennings to withdraw the union's charges against Hausgen to avoid a contempt citation.

If proved guilty of the union's charges, enumerated in part as follows, Hausgen would have been compelled to surrender his "withdrawal card" and the privileges that go with it.

15 Violations Mentioned. "The defendant, Roy Hausgen," the citation sets forth, has violated 15 union regulations by refusing with members of Local Union No. 1, its officers and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The defendant has met with different people in an effort to willfully damage and slander, and bring into discredit Local Union No. 1, its officers and the international brotherhood.

"It is further charged," the citation continues, "that he appeared as a witness in a quo warranto proceeding case and testified falsely for the purpose of damaging certain individuals officers of the electrical workers and damaging the interest of the union." It is further charged that Hausgen called Union Business Agent H. P. Koenig on the telephone and used "all kind of abusive and profane language" and condemned the union and union officials.

Hausgen is still under subpoena to appear as a witness at the hearing being conducted by Special Commissioner Brodus of Kansas City, at the law offices of Abbott, Fauntleroy, Cullen & Edwards, Commissioner Broadus, appointed by the State Supreme Court, has taken testimony in the outer suit at intervals for almost a year. The hearings will be resumed Jan. 26.

Testimony of witnesses has indicated that the Electrical Protective Association, the Electrical Employers' Association, the Electrical Approval Board and the Electrical Listing Bureau are used by certain contractors to enforce an agreement to charge a minimum of 33 1/3 per cent profit on all contracts. The organizations, the Attorney-General charged, are banding together in such a way as to form an illegal combination in restraint of trade.

To the Electrical Protective Association, the employer of union electricians must pay $2.80 a day for each union man he hires, for life and annuity insurance which is given to all members of Local No. 1, the contractor and his non-union employees. Failure to pay the insurance "premium," which has amounted to more than $250,000, since July 15, 1929, results in the refusal of union officials to furnish the contractor with men.

All contractors are forced to use the Listing Bureau to obtain estimates on materials and labor to figure the cost of a job. It was testified. Attorney-General Sharlet contends that this practice, with the alleged agreement to add one-third profit, tends to restrain, if not eliminate, competition.

Frisco's Florida Special Wrecked. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 16.—The engine of the Frisco Railway's northbound "Florida Special" overturned at Truman, Ark., last night, after crashing into a coal car. Engineer Gus Hon of Thayer, Mo., was the only person reported injured.

J. T. Wilford Leaves by Plane—He Attacked Government Editorially.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Jan. 15.—John T. Wilford, American newspaper editor who last night was ordered deported for criticism of the Government in his paper, left Cuba by plane before the order could be served. He left Havana at 2:30 this afternoon for Miami, after learning that he was to be expelled within the next 48 hours. He said he would go from Miami to New York.

His expulsion is in retaliation by the Government for editorials carried by the American during the last year. The paper was one of nine newspapers and periodicals suspended by the Government last Friday for anti-administration policies.

El Siboney, a pro-Government paper, was suspended yesterday for having caricatured former President Menocal, a bitter opponent of the Government. Information, one of the suspended papers, will resume publication today.

Mrs. Wilford, who is a Cuban woman, probably will remain in Cuba until their 19-year-old son, Alfredo, is released from the political prison to which he was sent after his participation in a recent student demonstration.

Wilford came to Cuba from Alabama 21 years ago, and after working on various Havana newspapers began publishing the Havana American in his own small plant, 18 months ago. Six months later his establishment was raided by Government agents who learned that La Voz, an anti-Government paper, was being printed in the plant. Wilford filed a claim for $10,000 damages but later withdrew his action.

Col. Robert Hicks, wealthy resident of De Funik Springs, Fla., who financed the American and who now is in Havana, said he would seek permission to resume publication under new management.

THREE HURT IN HOTEL HOLDUP

Two Robbers at Los Angeles Hosted After Injuring Guests.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 15.—Two robbers, in a futile effort to hold up the Gotham Hotel, seriously wounded G. H. Thompson, a guest, and injured two other persons last night.

L. E. Jarrett, the hotel clerk, refused to turn over money in the office to the intruders, and a general fight ensued. The other injured persons, also guests, were Raleigh Cronan and C. Russell. The robbers escaped after Dan Lewis, an elevator boy, struck one of the men with a chair.

LYNCHING INQUIRY PUTS ACTION UP TO NODAWAY COUNTY

Attorney-General, Acting on Request of Governor, Sends Special Investigator to Maryville.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—A special investigator, chosen by Attorney-General Shartel, has been sent to Maryville to carry out Gov. Caulfield's request, made in a letter to the Attorney-General yesterday, for a thorough investigation of the burning of Raymond Gunn, Negro, by a Nodaway County mob last Monday morning.

"The mob's action," Gov. Caulfield said in his letter, "was a defiance of the law, an outrage upon justice, and a disgrace to the State." He asked that the Attorney-General, or someone delegated by him, should make the investigation and "do everything in your power to see that those responsible for the crime are punished in accordance with the laws of this State."

No request for aid by the State in such an investigation has come to the Governor from the Nodaway County officials. The State law, as generally interpreted, does not authorize the Governor or the Attorney-General to take part in a criminal inquiry in any county without an invitation from the county authorities.

Up to County Officials. "But," the Governor said, "we are proceeding on the theory that the Nodaway County officers will welcome any investigation of law violations in their county." By this attitude of the Governor, the county officers are called upon to say whether they do or do not intend to do anything about the seizure and lynching of Gunn. He was accused of, and was said to have confessed to, the murder of Miss Valma Collier, 19 years old, a teacher, at Garrett school house Dec. 16. The mob took him from the Sheriff at the Courthouse door, walked him to the school house, four miles from Maryville, and burned the small frame building, with Gunn chained to the roof.

The report of Adjutant-General A. V. Adams to Gov. Caulfield, on the occurrences at Maryville after he arrived there last Sunday, and accounting for the inaction of the force of 60 local militiamen, which remained in the Armory during the lynching, was made public by the Governor.

In his report, the Adjutant-General told of his conference with Sheriff Harvey England Sunday night. George P. Wright of Maryville, former Prosecuting Attorney of Nodaway County, took part in the interview.

Wright, the report says, told Adjutant-General Adams and the Sheriff that there would be "hundreds of people" on the streets in Maryville Monday morning, when the prisoner, lately brought from Kansas City, would be taken from jail to the Courthouse. Wright said some of the crowd would be drawn by curiosity, but that others might come with definite ideas as to doing bodily harm to the prisoner, and he was very fearful of trouble.

Advised Sheriff to Act. Adams advised the Sheriff to increase his force of deputies, impressing on him, he said, the fact that the National Guard could act only on his official request. "Sheriff England replied that he was aware of that," the report says, "and would wait until the next morning and see what the condition was and then take such action as he felt necessary."

From the information he was able to obtain, Adams said, it appeared that the Sheriff was in doubt as to his ability to handle the situation. For this reason, the troops were mobilized and held in readiness. The battery remained in the armory until 3 p. m. the day of the lynching, "having received no official communication of any kind from the Sheriff or officials of the county."

"Myself and other National Guard officers at Maryville," Adjutant-General Adams says, "took it for granted that the Sheriff felt he was amply provided with assistance to handle any situation that might arise without the use of military forces. After it was known that the mob had taken the prisoner from the Sheriff, and we had received no request from the Sheriff for assistance, we took it for granted that he was taking steps and had the necessary assistance to recover the prisoner."

Wanted to Avoid Complications. "I felt that, inasmuch as the Sheriff knew the National Guard was mobilized within a block from the courthouse and available to him by the asking, he had laid his own plans, and that with the assistance of his deputies was attempting to recover the prisoner, and that any action the military forces might take, not co-ordinated with the Sheriff's efforts, would complicate the effort more than assist. This, coupled with the fact that under the State law the military forces have no authority to act in such situations except after official request, resulted in the National Guard unit remaining in the armory."

Baby Smothers While Asleep. An inquest will be held in the case of Robert Diebold, four months old, 2077, Arlington avenue, who smothered while asleep Wednesday night. The infant, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Diebold, was found with its face buried in a pillow.

200 Hosiery Workers Strike.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Two hundred workers at the Paterson-Mutual Silk Hosiery Mills in Te-cony are reported by officers of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers to have walked out in protest against a 30 per cent reduction in wages. Un-on officers said the men had re-turned to work shortly after Jan. 1, having accepted previous wage cuts "in order to assist the employ-ers in keeping the mills running."

POLICE JUDGE LADD SEEKS ORDER FOR J. P. COMMISSION
St. Louis County Court. Had Re-fused to Issue Papers to Men Elected at Large.
Police Judge Attilius A. Ladd of University City, who received a certificate of election as a Justice of the Peace also after he had won a mandamus proceeding in Circuit Judge Mulloy's court Jan. 2, today filed a mandamus petition at Clay-ton to compel the County Court to issue a commission to him.

The Court, on the advice of County Counselor Robert F. Stan-ton, refused to issue commissions to Ladd and five other township Justices of the Peace, elected last November. Judge Mulloy held that the official publication of census figures, which put St. Louis County in a class for which the law pro-vides only four Justices at large, was not made until Nov. 12, fol-lowing the election.

The Board of Election Commis-sioners, anticipating a change in the status of St. Louis County, placed the names of both classes of Justices on the ballot and at first issued certificates of election only to Justices at Large. The ac-tion of the County Court prevents there being two sets of Justices, since no steps have been made to remove those now serving.

INQUEST IN DEATH OF MAN INJURED IN FALL IN CELL Verdict of Accident Is Returned After Steve Mullin, Laborer, Succumbs.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death Wednesday night of Steve Mullin, 30-year-old laborer, 1122 Rutger street. His skull was fractured.

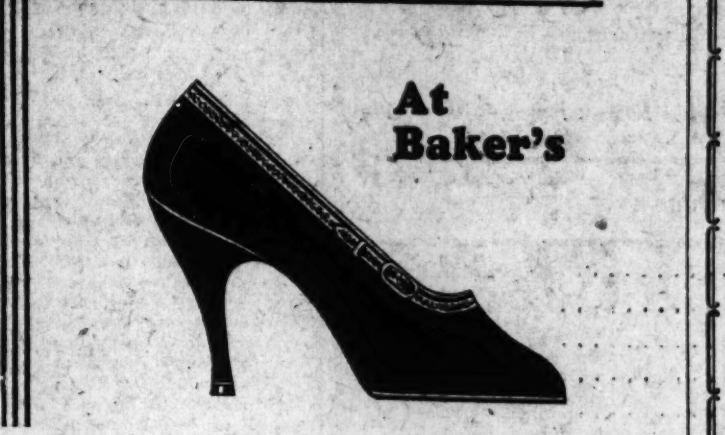

Follicemen testified that after he had been looked up at Soudard Street Police Station on Dec. 28 for fighting a drunkenness, Mullin fell and struck his head on the concrete floor while trying to sit on a bunk. He was treated at City Hospital and discharged on Jan. 1, being later taken to Alexian Brothers Hospital.

A prisoner in the same cell with him also testified that Mullin fell saying that Mullin was "too drunk his feet wouldn't stay under him." A nephew of Mullin testified that before his death Mullin told him he believed he had suffered his injury in the fall in the cell.

BILL FOR REGULAR AUDITS OF UTILITIES

Would Require Missouri Commission to Fix Rate Valuation Once Every 7 Years.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—The Missouri Public Service Commission will be required to make a valuation of each public utility in Missouri, to determine the fair value for rate-making purposes, at least once every seven years, under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative J. M. Joffe, Democrat, of Kansas City.

The Commission has been unable to keep its valuation work up to date because of limited appropriations which restrict the size of its engineering and accounting staffs. Many of the utility companies have not been valued by the Commission for rate-making purposes.

Some of the valuations, made years ago, have not been brought up to date, because of the Commission's limited facilities.

Passage of the Joffe bill would require enlargement of the commission staff and its appropriations, to make valuations of all of the utilities, or revisions of valuations, at least once each seven years.

RICHFIELD OIL CO. RECEIVER TO ATTEMPT REORGANIZATION

Thinks California Concern's Obligations Will Be Met Dollar for Dollar.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 16.—William C. McDuffie, Federal receiver for the Richfield Oil Co. of California, today announced that he would make no drastic changes in the firm's operation.

"The company's resources will be conserved and an effort toward reorganization will be made with full consideration given toward protecting the interest of all present security holders and creditors," McDuffie, former president of the company, said.

"The Richfield Oil Co. is a powerful entity and it is hoped to return the company to an even stronger position in the national oil business."

"I believe that over a period of time it will be possible to discharge the company's obligations dollar for dollar and that the creditors will not suffer a loss."

Inability to obtain additional working capital as contemplated under a recent plan of financial rehabilitation was the reason given for the company's failure to meet its obligations fully. The receiver, ship was granted yesterday on the petition of the Republic Supply Co., which alleged Richfield had been indebted to it for $275,000 for a considerable time.

Richfield's assets were listed as $143,000,000, its funded indebtedness at $35,000,000 and current debts at $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

CONFESSES FIVE ROBBERIES AFTER FINDING OF CLOCK

Man Who Gives Name as P. C. Murphy Left Pawnshop at Pawn Shop.

The finding of a silver clock in a pawn shop where it had been pledged by a man who said he was P. C. Murphy of the New Edison Hotel, 107 North Twentieth street, led to his arrest yesterday and his confession that he had robbed five houses recently.

The clock was recognized by police as having been taken from the home of Oregon Scott, 5311 Westminster place, Wednesday night. The prisoner admitted also, police reported, that he had taken jewelry and clothing from the homes of C. O. Robinson, 6325 Pershing avenue, and Homer Howard, 3635 Enright avenue, and two other places he will point out today.

BANK HOLDUP AT PLATO, MO.

Two Young Hobbers Escape With $500; Posses Formed.

By the Associated Press.
PLATO, Mo., Jan. 16.—Entering the Bank of Plato a few minutes after it opened at 9 o'clock morning, two young men held up Roy Tilley, the cashier, the only person in the bank at the time, and escaped with $500 cash.

A posse was quickly organized here and the men were being hunted at noon in the region around Dixon, Mo. Tilley had just opened the vault of the bank and was checking up when the men entered. Both carried pistols, but only one was masked. One took the money in sight, overlooking more cash in the vault. They then went to a blue coupe outside. The machine was said to have a yellow stripe around the body.

NEW CUT-OFF OPENED BY MISSOURI PACIFIC

Jedburg-Eureka Line Straightens Route and Avoids Floods.

A three and one-half mile stretch of new railroad on the cut-off of the Missouri Pacific Lines between Jedburg and Eureka, St. Louis County, was opened today when a special train carrying executives of the railroad traveled the route for the first time.

The new short cut, eliminating numerous curves, elevating tracks above the reach of floods, and shortening the distance between the two towns by two miles, crosses the Meramec River at Jedburg, continues westward, and crosses the river again about two miles east of Eureka. The old route turned north at Jedburg, following the arc of the Meramec, then south into Eureka.

The cut-off is part of a 10.4-mile double-track construction between Lake Hill and Eureka, which is being completed at a cost of $4,500,000.

A double-track line through this section is expected to be opened about Feb. 1 and will complete double tracks between Jefferson City and St. Louis with the exception of two and a half miles between Kirkwood and Lake Hill.

The new cut-off necessitated a cut through rock near Jedburg, reaching a depth of 65 feet and extending more than 1000 feet, and a similar cut near Eureka, having a maximum depth of 50 feet.

Beauty Where Beauty Should Be

What a Difference a Few Days Will Make!

SKIN blemishes, dull, yellow, pasty complexion and blotches usually yield to proper treatment. The cause must be removed. Many blemishes come all too frequently from a toxemia, blood supply poisoned by intestinal stasis, that cannot overcome the tiny facial infections. Continued, the condition leads to auto-intoxication and many serious diseases. These signs are Nature's signals for an improper elimination, that lowers bodily resistance and makes infection easy.

Few realize when their system is on the border line. It comes on so gradually. There may be a daily functioning—partial elimination. No one will tell you of the fetid breath and body odor. But your mirror will tell. Nature signals her need of proper elimination.

Try This Ten-Cent Test

A ten-cent package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers—the convenient pocket size—should wonder for many. Eyes become brighter and more sparkling. A healthier color glows from a live and colorful complexion when there is proper elimination. Let one dime open this way to skin beauty for you.

10 REPUBLICANS, 6 DEMOCRATS BANK CLUB GIVES DINNER

IN RACE-FOR CHICAGO MAYOR

Deadline on Petitions Falls at Midnight; Some Are Expected to Withdraw.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Ten Republicans and six Democrats want to be the world's fair Mayor of Chicago. Candidates to that number had filed up to last midnight, the deadline for petitions, but rumors in political circles were that not all the 16 would be in the race Jan. 24, the last day for withdrawing.

Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the Board of Review, invited all the candidates for the Republican nomination except Mayor William Hale Thompson to meet him tomorrow for the purpose of concentrating their strength against the incumbent.

Judge John H. Lyle, whose warrants for vagrancy issued against "public enemies" and other activities against gangsters have attracted much attention; Alderman Arthur F. Albert, Thomas J. Houston, former chairman of the Mayor's Civil Service Commission, and former City Comptroller Charles K. Schmidt are among the Republican candidates.

Anton J. Cimrak, president of the Cook County Board, has been endorsed unanimously by ward committeemen for the Democratic nomination, but petitions by Russell H. Runk, Patrick B. Flanagan, John B. De Voney, Martin Pownoznik and James C. Mullen, the last a boxing promoter, were also filed.

Mayor Gideon Fighting Recall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 16.—Mayor T. H. Gideon, who yesterday got a temporary injunction to restrain the City Council from calling a special recall election for Feb. 10, announced today he would carry his case to the Supreme Court if necessary. The special date had been set by the City Council after enough petitions had been filed by voters demanding an election to oust the Mayor after he had been convicted in Federal Court for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Harry Spann Heads First National Organization.

Harry Spann was elected president of the First National Bank in St. Louis Club last night at its annual dinner at Hotel Jefferson.

Walter W. Smith, president, and M. E. Holderness, vice president of the First National Bank; Isaac H. Orr, president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., and Harry T. Ferris, executive vice president of the First National Co., addressed the meeting. Officers and employees of these affiliated institutions compose the club. W. C. Connett was toastmaster.

Other officers elected were: Edward Holstein, Austin T. Shires and Elsie Rhode, vice presidents; J. J. Ford, secretary; James Byerly, treasurer, and Florence Hurst, Loreta Boettler and Fred Rooper, governors.

SOLDIERS SEARCH OAXACA RUINS FOR EARTHQUAKE DEAD

Estimates of Fatalities in That City Run to 48, but Only 11 Bodies Have Been Recovered.

REPORT OF VOLCANIC ERUPTION UNDER SEA

Smoke and Steam Rise From Ocean Off Mazatlan and Dead Fish Are Washed on Beaches.

LEGGE SAYS WORLD MAY BE 'GLOOMY' FOR YEARS

Declares American Production of Wheat Produced Domestic Consumption

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16.—Oaxaca, a city of 50,000, lay in ruins today while soldiers and volunteers searched the debris for victims of Wednesday night's earthquake.

Eleven bodies were in morgues and estimates on the number of dead ran as high as 48. The buried list was much larger, while estimates on damage to the city range from 50 to 90 per cent.

About 24 miles of the railroad between Oaxaca and Puebla and Mexico City were torn up or covered with earth and stones during the disturbance, which caused damage in every state of Southern Mexico but seemed to center Oaxaca State.

Outside of Oaxaca three deaths are reported. These were all in Mexico City where an elderly woman was buried under falling masonry, a four-year-old girl received injuries of which she died, and a soldier, a chemist, was fatally injured. Six others were gravely injured. Fifty persons received minor injuries.

From Mazatlan, Southern Sinaloa, today came reports that a submarine volcano was belching smoke and steam some distance from the shore. Dead fish, thought to have been killed by the fumes, were seen on the beach.

Shocks of the seismic disturbances, have been thrown on the beaches for 10 days.

Rescue work in Oaxaca was impeded by the general nature of the destruction. With virtually every house made unsafe for occupancy, the inhabitants took to the fields, despite bitter cold, and slept there under improvised shelter.

Similar conditions were reported at least four towns near Oaxaca and in many smaller hamlets and villages throughout the Southern part of the republic.

Oaxaca was damaged by earthquakes in 1737 and in 1837. Mexico City's escape from serious damage is attributed to the lack of soft earth on which the city is built. This acts as a shock absorber. It prevents any high buildings from being constructed.

Urgent appeals for aid in the state of Oaxaca were received today by the Oaxaca Congressional delegation. A message from the governor said the Military Medical department there was directing the incineration of bodies, not only those of the earthquake victims but also of a number of children buried in the cemeteries as the earthquake.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senator Legge of the Farm Bureau, endorsed the Bureau's two-year embargo on wheat and butter.

In a letter to Rep. Burton of North Dakota, Legge said the bill "is along the line of affording perhaps the best method of dealing with the situation."

"However," he continued, "it is immaterial to us how it is arrived at but present certainly justify action of Congress to meet the emergency."

"Some of these coming from the country that seems as though they are tained for them would be the cost of transportation areas in which they are."

"So far there has been no movement in world prices of the situation think that there is a possibility that they will go still, therefore hope that the present Congress adjourn find it possible to pass legislation as will protect the producer during this period."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Government today published the text of an electoral reform, which, if passed by Parliament, will effect the greatest changes in the British election system since the reform of 1932.

The basis of the new measure is proportional representation, which the Liberal party has long fought for. By seeking its adoption the party is considered to have made a definite bid for continued liberal support in maintaining the MacDonald Government.

The chief proposal of the new measure is to bring about proportional representation by providing for introduction of the alternative vote under which voters cast their votes for three candidates, instead of voting for one man only as is the case at present.

Under the system the first counting of the poll is done on the basis of first choice votes only and if one candidate has a clear majority he is automatically elected.

If, however, the candidate with the largest number of votes has not a clear majority then the candidate with the lowest number of votes is eliminated from the contest and the number of second choice votes recorded on the ballot papers entered for him is apportioned between the two leading candidates and decides the issue.

Hungarian War Minister Injured.

HUNGARY, Jan. 16.—Premier's explosion of a hand grenade at army maneuvers today drove a steel splinter into the left foot of Mr. Goenboeck, the Minister of War, who was admitted to a hospital.

By the Associated Press.

TOBACCO STRIKE Villagers Stop Smokers' Trust Is Broken

By the Associated Press.

PEASANTS of this village solved never to smoke again till the grip of Tobacco Trust is broken. The trust has a special crop of Poland's tobacco crop of controlling production.

It is asked local peasants to pay for special license to plant their tobacco. They went ahead and planted without permit harvesting them and ordered them to be destroyed. They will not pay a fine the decision to use tobacco was made.

Estimates of Fatalities in That City Run to 48, but Only 11 Bodies Have Been Recovered.

REPORT OF VOLCANIC ERUPTION UNDER SEA

Smoke and Steam Rise From Ocean Off Mazatlan and Dead Fish Are Washed on Beaches.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16.—Oaxaca, city of 50,000, lay in ruins today while soldiers and volunteers searched the debris for victims of Wednesday night's earthquake.

Eleven bodies were in morgues and estimates on the number of dead ran as high as 48. The injured list was much larger, while estimates on damage to the city ranged from 50 to 80 per cent.
About 24 miles of the railroad between Oaxaca and Puebla and Mexico City were torn up or covered with earth and stones during the disturbance, which caused damage in every state of Southwest Mexico but seemed to center in Oaxaca State.

Outside of Oaxaca three deaths were reported. These were all in Mexico City where an elderly woman was buried under falling masonry.
A four-year-old girl received injuries of which she died, and Nicolas Penaguala, a chemist, was fatally injured. Six others here are gravely injured. Fifty persons received minor injuries.

From Guadalupe, Southern Sinaloa, today came reports that a submarine volcano was belching smoke and steam some distance from the shore. Dead fish, thought to have been killed by the fumes or shock of the seismic disturbance, have been thrown on the beaches for 10 days.

Rescue work in Oaxaca was impeded by the general nature of the destruction. With virtually every house made unsafe for occupancy, the inhabitants took to the fields, despite bitter cold, and slept there under improvised shelter.
Similar conditions were reported at least four towns near Oaxaca and in many smaller hamlets and villages throughout the Southern part of the republic.

Oaxaca was damaged by earthquakes in 1727 and in 1787.
Mexico City's escape from serious damage is attributed to the blanket of soft earth on which the city is built. This acts as a shock absorber. It prevents any high buildings from being constructed.
Urgent appeals for aid in the State of Oaxaca were received today by the Oaxaca Congressional delegation. A message from the Governor said the Military Medical Department there was directing the incineration of bodies, not only those of the earthquake victims but also of a number disinterred in the cemeteries as the earth receded.

BRITAIN CONSIDERS DRASTIC ELECTORAL SYSTEM REFORM

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Government today published the text of an electoral reform which, if passed by Parliament, will effect the greatest changes in the British election system since the reform acts of 1832.
The basis of the new measure is proportional representation, which the Liberal party has long fought for. By seeking its adoption, the Labor party is considered to have made a definite bid for continued support in maintaining the National Government. The draft proposal of the new measure is to bring about proportional representation by providing for introduction of the alternative vote under which voters in constituencies where they are contested by three candidates will record their first and second preferences instead of voting for one man only as is the case at present.

Under the system the first counting of the poll is done on the basis of first choice votes only and if one candidate has a clear majority over the combined vote of the other two he is automatically elected under the present system.
If, however, the candidate with the largest number of votes has not a clear majority then the candidate with the lowest number of votes is eliminated from the contest and the number of second choice votes recorded on the ballot papers entered for him is apportioned between the two leading candidates and decides the issue.

LEGGE SAYS WORLD MARKET IS 'BLOOMY' FOR FARMER

Declares American Producer Must Cut Wheat Production to Domestic Consumption.

By the Associated Press.
URBANA, Ill., Jan. 16.—Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, in an address prepared for delivery on the annual farm and home week program said that United States wheat growers "have no alternative but to produce no more than can be consumed at home if they want a better price."

"The world wheat market is decidedly gloomy for the American grower," Legge said. "There already is too much wheat, with production increasing in some of the exporting countries and Russia coming back into the market faster than any of us thought possible. There is no way to get rid of surplus American wheat at a price below the present domestic level."

Legge said he had information of a "widespread drive" by grain brokers to break down the stabilizing operations by calling for doubled margin on May wheat but offering to carry growers at the old
to the new crop of July wheat, unsupported by the board.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Chairman Legge of the Farm Board has indorsed the Burtens bill for a two-year embargo on wheat, feed grains and butter.
In a letter to Representative Burtens of North Dakota, Legge said the bill "is along the right lines as affording perhaps the quickest method of dealing with the situation."

However, he continued, "it is immaterial to us how this result is arrived at but present conditions certainly justify action on the part of Congress to meet the present emergency."
Some of these commodities are coming into the country on a basis that seems as though the price obtained for them would hardly pay the cost of transportation from the areas in which they are produced.
"So far there has been no improvement in world prices. Many students of the situation seem to think that there is a probability that they will go still lower. I therefore hope that before the present Congress adjourns they will find it possible to pass such legislation as will protect the American producer during this period of distress."

NEW U. S. EMBASSY IN ROME

$1,000,000 Paid for Former Property of King.

ROME, Jan. 16.—The United States Government, represented by Ambassador John W. Garrett of Baltimore, and the Fascist party signed a contract yesterday for America's purchase of a new Embassy site in Rome at a cost of $1,000,000 less a little more than a million dollars.
The site formerly belonged to King Victor Emmanuel, and was part of the property given by him to the Queen Mother Margherita when Victor Emmanuel ascended the throne in 1900. It consists of two villas and a beautiful park, the whole embracing nearly three acres, facing on the new boulevard, Via Veneto, in the heart of Rome. One of the villas will contain the Embassy and Consulate offices. The other will be Ambasador Garrett's residence.

EINSTEIN CALLED MOSES OF PHYSICS BY DR. MILLIKAN

He Led Scientists From Wilderness of Doubt After 20 Years, Radio
Speaker Says.

EIGHT NOTED MEN ATTEND BANQUET

At Pasadena, German Gives Credit to Experts Who Helped Him to Develop Relativity Theory.

By the Associated Press.
PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 16.—Dr.
Albert Einstein was pictured as the Moses of the physicists by Dr. Rep-ert A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology in a nationwide radio address last night.
Dr. Albert A. Michelson led scientists into a wilderness of doubt some half century ago with his famous Michelson-Morley experiment which showed the speed with which the earth moves through space had no effect on the speed of light. That showed accepted laws of physics to be wrong.

"For 20 years after this fact came to light," said Dr. Millikan, "physicists wandered in the wilderness in a disheartening effort to make it seem reasonable. Then Einstein called out to us all:
"Let us merely accept this as an established experimental fact and proceed to work out its inevitable consequences," and he went at that task himself with an energy and a capacity which very few people on earth possess."
"Thus was born the special theory of relativity."

Eight scientists at banquet.
Eight distinguished scientists gathered at a banquet here to celebrate the delivery from the wilderness and the progress of research.
The speeches were broadcast over the Columbia network.

The guests were Einstein, Mich-
elson and Millikan, all holders of nobel prizes, and William Wallace
Campbell, Walter S. Adams,
Charles E. St. John, Edwin P. Hubble
and Richard Chace Tolman.
Einstein classified them in his speech. To Michelson, he said:
"You, my honored Dr. Michelson, began with this work when I was only a little youngster, hardly three feet high. It was you who led the physicists into new paths, and through your marvelous experimental work paved the way for the development of the theory of relativity."

Praise for the Others.
And to the others:
"Campbell's determination of the bending of the rays of light coming past the sun; St. John's determination of the red shift of spectral lines due to the gravitational potential existing at the surface of the sun; Adams' determination of the red shift in the light which comes from the companion of Sirius—these provide the best support of the general theory of relativity."

He then turned to Hubble, who has explored into greater distances of the universe than any other man, and congratulated him for discovery of red shift in spectral lines of spiral nebulae, which give a dynamic conception of the spatial structure of the universe.
To Tolman, the mathematician, he turned with credit for an original and illuminating conception of the universe.
Then to Millikan he expressed appreciation for his advanced work on cosmic rays and researches tending to prove the corpuscular structure of radiant energy, which many scientists regard as a key to the secret of the construction of the universe.

BRIAND ASSERTS EUROPEANS MUST UNITE TO LIVE

Tells Delegates of 26 Nations Co-Operation of None Will Be Rejected in Federation Plan.

CURTIS PLEDGES AID OF GERMANY

Dutch Economist Asserts Outlook Is Worse Now Than in 1927—"People Losing Faith in League."

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Jan. 16.—Europe has come to the belief that her nations must unite if they are to live, Aristide Briand today told delegates from 26 European states gathered here under the auspices of the League of Nations to examine his plan for a Pan-European Federation.

"We have a long road to travel," he told the Assembly as he opened his sessions, "and we must map it out. We must never be swayed from our purpose and in our task we will reject the co-operation of none."

Dr. Julius Curtius, Germany's foreign minister, echoed the French chairman's declaration, asserting that his nation, supporting any program of co-operation and peace, agrees that in these first meetings economic collaboration among the nations must be emphasized.

Basis for Economic Discussions.
For the commission's guidance, Briand said, the League Secretariat has prepared a report on the League's work for European organization during the last decade, and a similar report has been made available by the International Labor Union. These data, he said, will form a basis for this commission's economic discussions.

The guests were Einstein, Mich-
elson and Millikan, all holders of nobel prizes, and William Wallace
Campbell, Walter S. Adams,
Charles E. St. John, Edwin P. Hubble
and Richard Chace Tolman.

Briand replied that he already had indicated he wanted to call on all Governments to participate, but that there was still a question as to the proper time for inviting these non-members of the League of Nations. The commission itself must decide this, he said.

Curtius to Press Proposal.
Curtius answered that he understood, therefore, that his proposal was on the agenda for this session and the issue was thus put squarely up to the commission. Turkey and the Soviet Union are the only European nations not now represented at this meeting.

Dino Grandi, Italy's Foreign Minister, supported the contention of Curtius that both Turkey and Russia be asked to sit in.
Italy, he said, favors a European union which would include all the countries which make up Europe, otherwise a union excluding some nations merely would divide Europe into two camps.

Arthur Henderson, for Great Britain, suggested that this question be decided by a small committee. His proposal was adopted.
Hendrik Koolijn of Holland, one of the most eminent economic authorities identified with the League of Nations' activities, told delegates that Europe's economic outlook is worse now than it was in 1927.

"After nearly four years of hard work," he said, "that is all we can say. There has been no improvement at all. On the contrary, we are gradually slipping backward and the consequence is that people in many countries have lost all faith in the League's economic work."

He was reporting on the unsuccessful effort last year to insure rate concerted economic action among Europe's nations in line with recommendations of the world economic conference of 1927.
A single gleam of hope, he said, shines from the promise of many states to seek tariff reductions through bi-lateral treaties. If free trade countries are forced to adopt protectionism, he predicted, there will be "relentless economic warfare."
"All who are concerned for the future of Europe," he said, "should do everything possible to ward off the disastrous consequences of any increase in competition in the fields of economics and armaments
... I know that long years, perhaps generations, lie between us and our goal and that we must go slowly and carefully arranging all the transitional stages."

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC SPREADING IN EUROPE

Thousands Are Ill and in Some Places Schools Are Closed.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 16.—An influenza epidemic covering a large part of Europe, especially in the cities and towns, has put thousands in their beds ill and hampered business and transportation services through reductions in staffs. In some cases schools have closed.

In 107 large towns of England on whose returns the country's vital statistics are based there were 101 deaths from the disease last week, compared with 60 deaths the previous week. Otherwise there has been no large increase in the mortality rate and in some countries, Spain and Portugal particularly, the disease is of a mild type.

Suddenness of the attack is one of the features of the epidemic in England, many victims starting out in the morning apparently in good health but collapsing during the day with the familiar symptoms of fever and headache.

In London many businesses are running short handed. Many social functions have been canceled.
Briand replied that he already

PLANES REACH RIO DE JANEIRO, ENDING FLIGHT FROM ITALY

11 of 14 Machines That Started Complete Journey; Last Leg
From Bahia.

By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 16.—Eleven Italian seaplanes yesterday completed the flight of more than 6000 miles which began Dec. 17 at Orbetello, Italy. Gen. Italo Balbo, the 34-year-old Italian Air Minister, took the 11 ships off the water at Bahia at 8:17 a. m. and set them down upon Botafogo Bay between 4:54 and 5 p. m., completing the last leg of 747 miles.

High Brazilian officials stood on the dock of the Fluminense Yacht Club while a launch bearing the Italian Ambassador and a representative of President Getulio Vargas went out to take Gen. Balbo off his plane. After a brief ceremony the aviators were taken in automobiles to the Gloria Hotel, where they will be the guests of the city while here.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16.—The Mexican dollar fell to a new low level of 21.8 cents (gold) here today. Nationalist Government postal authorities said as a result of the persistent decline in silver they were considering a further advance in the international postal rates.

These rates were increased 50 per cent last July as a result of the silver slump.

HOOVER THINKS CHILD HEALTH WORK RESTS WITH THE STATES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—President Hoover thinks the task of carrying on the work of the recent White House child health conference rests chiefly on the states and local communities. The chief executive expressed this opinion in a letter to Gov. Leslie of Indiana for presentation last night to the Indiana Conference on Child Health and Protection.

"The Federal Government can help with information and research and toward the creation of administrative agencies and the funds to assist them in support of them," President Hoover wrote, "but they rest primarily with states and counties, co-operating often with private agencies and dealing with the problem at close range and in the light of local conditions."

"The work in behalf of children is so intimately a part of the life of the people that its control and direction need to be kept very close to them."

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 16.—Police fired on a meeting of striking mill hands in the Parel area today, wounding two persons. Thirty others were injured in a fight with police at a demonstration on the Malden esplanade this evening.

These instances of rioting marked observance of a day of mourning called by Indian Nationalists in protest against the execution recently of four rioters convicted of killing a policeman at Sholapur last spring. During the day more than 100 persons were injured as police broke up sporadic demonstrations in the streets.

The congress organization promised to paralyze the city's industrial life. At the hour of opening the cotton mills it was observed that the strike order would be extensively obeyed. About 140,000 workmen were out and only three of the city's 80 mills were operating.

Despite the halt, street cars and taxicabs were running. The Indian Nationalists principally confined their activities to impeding traffic, either through thrusting themselves in front of vehicles or by blocking sidewalks. Others held the police, the whole affair having a theatrical and almost farcical aspect to an American bystander.

I know that my platform will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory polity.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Humankind and the Machine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE everybody is solving the economic problem let me contribute my mite. It is this: nationalize the machine. Let the Government take over every invention, leaving it to the highest bidder on such terms as experience proves fair. There are four parties in equity, as I see it: the Government, the consuming public, the lessee and the inventor. Perhaps the interests of the Government and the consuming public are identical. Perhaps the consuming public interest could practically be subverted through the Government's rational exercise of the taxing power, thereby relieving the great mass of the people of burdensome taxation by placing the load on the shoulders of the lessee.

This proposal will, of course, be denounced as Red radicalism, but after that cry has rung across the land, and after they have hanged this humble proponent to the convenient lamp post, you and the other survivors may be able to consider the proposition with your brains instead of your hereditary prejudices and superstitions.

All will admit, I am sure, that the machine ought to be a blessing to man. Why isn't it? Why has it become a curse, marooning millions in destitution on a sea of unexploited plenty? The answer seems to me obvious. The profits of the machine have not been equitably distributed. They have been, in effect, monopolized by the owners and operators of the machine. As a consequence wealth is concentrated in the hands of 2 per cent of the people, while 10 per cent of the people are pauperized, 60 per cent are only a month or two away from the bread lines, thanks to their precarious jobs, and 25 per cent dwell in the none too certain zone of so-called comfortable circumstances. Those proportions, if not mathematically correct, are accurate enough for debating purposes.

Admittedly this is an impossible situation. It cannot be endured. The solution can only be found in a fairer division of the profits of industry. If the Government owned the machine it would have the power to effect a fairer division. If it did not have the ability to do it the people would have to keep on experimenting until they devised a Government that did have the ability to administer its trust. I don't care what "ism" you call this. But may I remind you that this is an established, historic "ism" in its army of unemployed? Its full name is terrorism. This reason, if that's the word, comes from

PLYMOUTH ROCK.

Opposes Dredging of Meramec.

APLICATION has been made by the Central Building Material Co. to the War Department in this city for the privilege of dredging the Meramec River from its mouth to Eureka.

It is proposed to dig a channel 100 feet wide and 10 feet deep in that part of the river. This work will ruin many bathing beaches, will destroy boating, canoeing and other river sports and will abolish the playground of many thousands of people.

Thousands of persons in the city and county are owners of cottages and clubs on both banks of the river, the use of which will be destroyed if this river is commercialized as proposed.

Individual opposition can do little in the way of opposition, but the voice of the newspaper is usually effective where civic interests are concerned.

VINCENT MCSHANE.

Exploded Theories.

THE letter of L. H. Lionberger was most interesting. He asks the question and answers it, too, if we will after all receive benefits from this depression. I think we will.

The theory that the higher the tariff is the more prosperous people will be, has been exploded—also the remarks of Senator Watson who predicted prosperity in 60 days after passage of Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, are no longer audible.

Irving Fisher said prohibition was saving this country $4,000,000,000 yearly—that theory has been completely exploded.

Roger Babson, while backing up Fisher's statistics, added and abetted the Florida boom with frequent statements of the increasing prosperity of this country and a needed winter playground for the rich and new rich (Florida). The Florida land boom with its losses and sorrows and disappointments has exploded.

We have been taught in the past that all happiness and prosperity rested on having the Republican party in charge of the Government. This was so much believed that when the Great Engineer predicted the abolition of poverty thousands of Southern Democrats deserted the party of their fathers and aligned themselves with the "new idea." That theory has been hopelessly exploded.

The theory of having to dig a ditch to drain anything has been exploded. The present administration headed by the Great Engineer has drained the entire United States without digging a ditch.

WILLIAM D. GRAY.

THE TAX ON CAPITAL GAINS.

The perennial effort to remove the burden of taxation from the shoulders of the rich is now taking the form of agitation for the reduction or abolition of the Federal tax on capital gains. Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank and Charles Mitchell of the National City Bank have denounced this tax. President Hoover has told Congress that its effect is "to enhance speculative inflation and likewise impede business recovery," and John J. Raasch has asserted that its abolition would "release and give greater encouragement to capital to engage in speculative enterprise, which is bound to result in greater employment."

The capital gains provision in the Federal income tax law enables persons who have realized a profit from the sale of land or securities which they have held for more than two years to elect to pay a flat rate of 12 1/2 per cent on this income rather than the rate which would otherwise apply. The provision is of no advantage to those whose small incomes are taxed at low rates. It benefits only those whose incomes exceed $20,000 per year, and the amount of the benefit grows with the size of the income and the size of the surtax rate which would otherwise apply. The law already thus discriminates in favor of the richer taxpayer. The present proposal, however, would increase the extent of this discrimination or would even exempt this type of income from taxation entirely.

The argument which is advanced to support this proposal runs in these terms: The capital gains tax caused inflation. People who had made a profit on stocks held on to them rather than share this profit with the Government. This made securities scarce and their prices high. The tax also caused the severe deflation which followed. People sold their holdings at a loss so as to be able to deduct the loss from income and avoid the income tax. The tax retards business recovery because people won't buy securities any more since they fear that they might make profits on them which would render them liable to taxation.

Such reasoning is flabby. Will rich men refuse to pocket $7 in profits in order to cheat the Government out of $1 in taxes? Will they voluntarily incur a loss of $10 so that they may avoid a tax bill of $1.67? Will they decline to invest their money because they will be permitted to pocket only $7 of every $8 which they realize? If so, they have less sense than we had supposed.

The abolition of the tax on capital gains would deprive the Government of a source of revenue which in 1925 yielded more than a quarter of a billion dollars and as much as a fifth of the total collected under the income tax. It would necessitate an increased rate on other types of income and would thus untax the big real estate and stock speculator at the expense of the small salaried man. It would open the door to evasion of the income tax through the simple device of presenting corporate earnings, not as taxable dividends but as non-taxable increments in capital value. It would encourage gambling in the security market at the expense of investment in legitimate industry.

Public opinion, we trust, will not be moved by the specious arguments which the real estate speculator and stock gambler may induce eminent persons to offer in their behalf.

ARE YOU READY FOR THE QUESTION?

"Well," chirped the San Francisco Call-Bulletin one day this week, "here's our California spring, already here, months ahead of the springs they know in the East." "The rains fell and the brown hills became alive," its rhapsody went on. "There's a tint of green on them already, the cattle have their heads down on every slope, enjoying their salad days." Then came the moral: "Easterners say we Californians have no variety in our seasons and miss a lot therefore. Easterners don't understand." Oh, yeah? Well, there are some things on that very subject which Easterners—anybody who lives east of the Feather River Canon is an Easterner to a Californian—do understand, that Californians don't. In these parts the seasons correspond to what is actually going on in the world. In the spring the grass springs. In the fall the leaves fall. In the summer we have summer. In the winter it is winter. There being no further business the chair will entertain a motion for adjournment. Tra-la-la-la! Tra-la-la-la! "Dee dum!"

It seems the bootleggers of Chicago are not to leave much in the way of bootlegages.

THE FREE STATE'S GOVERNOR.

The people of Maryland heard the fourth inaugural address of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie the other day—the only man in the State's history to be honored with so extended a tenure of the office. Everything he said on this latest occasion could have been said at any of the previous ceremonies, and, in truth, was said. Every principle he enunciated might have been expressed by Thomas Jefferson. For the pattern and content of Mr. Ritchie's Democracy is faithfully and studiously Jeffersonian. Here is a believer in states' rights, in the dignity and sovereignty and indispensability of local self-government if the American concept of a representative democracy is not to perish in a centralized federal empire. Here is a Democrat who denounced the un-American moral paternalism of prohibition when the Anti-Saloon League was at its tyrannical peak and, as symbolized and ruled by Wayne Wheeler, passed sentence of political death on every public official who dared to question the power, the glory or the infallibility of the eighteenth amendment. Here is a Democrat whose hatred for the material paternalism of Washington through the agency of the tariff is not merely a traditional doctrine but a living gospel. Here is a Jeffersonian whose contempt for the Ku Klux hysteria was, in speech and action, the logical compulsion of his devotion to religious liberty.

Mr. Ritchie's political philosophy is not only historically sound but it is militantly competent for the requirements of today. That competency is exemplified in Maryland, which has never yielded to fanatical dress or swallowed the sophistry of political expediency. The Free State has continued to be the Free State, in fact as well as in name, a superior self-respecting commonwealth, thanks in large measure to the courageous and enlightened leadership of Gov. Ritchie. Maryland has recorded her appreciation of his official service with appropriate emphasis. The nation as a whole, moving out of the shadows of theocracy, perceiving at last the impotency of that economic myth, the tariff, recognizes that the choice must be made between equality of opportunity and the spoilsmanship of privilege—the nation disillusioned, informed and aroused, may also pay its tribute to Maryland's great Governor.

A TYPICAL VALUATION FARCE.

It is a typical valuation farce that is going on this week before the Missouri Public Service Commission. The City of St. Louis is seeking to reduce the profits of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. some $1,000,000 a year, and the company is endeavoring to prove that the excess profits it is taking are fair.

So enter into the debate all the hocus-pocus and make-believe which have given the power issue its almost sudden dominance in American politics. Thus, the company claims a valuation for rate-making purposes of approximately $30,000,000, whereas the city insists that its value upon the same theory of valuation, that is, what it would cost to reproduce the property, is approximately $4,000,000. In its efforts to sustain its own figure the company even went so far as to value its real estate at a higher rate than that of comparable adjacent property because of the special use made of it. The commission resisted this sophistry. However well intentioned, and however disposed to compel the company to deal justly with the public, the commission cannot keep it from enjoying a swollen valuation under the United States Supreme Court decisions and thus literally picking the pockets of the people of St. Louis.

This is what makes the hearing a farce. It has made farcical every such case taken before the commission by the City of St. Louis. All over the country, and in all the states, commission or no commission, this farce is going on, and the people are paying through the nose, because regulation has broken down. Cities are powerless, commissions are powerless, states are powerless. There has never been an actual valuation of the property of Union Electric. The one made some 15 years ago was as farcical as the present hearing at Jefferson City. Mr. Muench, the corporation counsel of St. Louis, charges that Union Electric is getting in excess of $1,000,000 a year more than it is entitled to under the law. The law permits the company to take at least 7 per cent profit on the "fair value of its property." Because its actual money investment is lost sight of in what Prof. Felix Frankfurter calls the "valuation maze" resulting from decisions of the United States Supreme Court, the company lugs in by the ears going value, reproduction cost, fictitious property values, supercharges imposed upon operating expenses, and so on to the gigantic and staggering total which it pretends to believe it can get from the Federal courts whether the Missouri commission likes it or not.

Is it any wonder that such unfair practices have at last given the nation the power issue?

THE ACE, THE TRUMP, THE LAW.

It happened in the home of the Ashleys of Menominee, Mich., where George Bolin was a guest. The game was bridge. Mr. Bolin led an ace. His partner, Mr. Ashley, trumped it. Mr. Bolin punched Mr. Ashley's nose. Mrs. Ashley reproved him. Mr. Bolin flattened Mrs. Ashley. Mr. Bolin smashed half a dozen chairs and then crashed through a window. In the ensuing trial the court acquitted Mr. Bolin. So now you know what to do when your partner trumps your ace. Don't pretend you don't. Ignorance of the law is no excuse.

CUBA'S SHACKLED PRESS.

An editorial giving a frank view of Cuban affairs, reprinted on this page, proved to be the swan song of the Havana American, the English-language publication in which it appeared. On the same day this editorial was printed, the Cuban Government ordered suspension of the newspaper, together with four Spanish-language dailies and four comic magazines because, the edict said, they had printed "exaggerated and distorted" accounts of recent disorders. The humorous magazines had burlesqued the Government, and the newspapers affected had printed details of street rioting and other violence.

One of the suspended papers had begun publication only the day before; the three others were among Cuba's leading journals. One of these, Diario de la Marina, had an unbroken 98-year record of publication until last November, when it joined several other publications in voluntary suspension as a protest against censorship. This was nominally withdrawn, only to be replaced now by these suspensions. Havana's chief remaining newspapers are Heraldo de Cuba, published by President Machado's brother, and the Post and Telegram, controlled by Carl Byoir, an alleged administration propagandist.

Thus, along with individual rights, higher education and free speech, freedom of the press disappears, temporarily at least, from the Cuban scene. Had the President wished to refute the courageous Havana American's charge that disagreement with his policies was akin to treason, a tolerant attitude would have shown the accusation to be in error. Instead, his action proves the truth of the charge. Suppression of these papers will not remedy the conditions which they reported and criticized: only drastic governmental reform can do that. And since Machado's administration has shown itself incapable or unwilling to deal with the situation, there is considerable point to the suggestion that it get out of office. Certainly this is a better proposal than that the United States intervene to preserve peace and keep Machado in power.

MR. BRUNK AND THE LEGISLATURE.

Impeachment of State Treasurer Brunk is contemplated in a resolution adopted by the House. Gov. Caulfield suspended Brunk from office last October on charges of alleged irregularities in handling State funds deposited in the now defunct Bank of Aurora. This action was taken under a statute which gave the Governor no alternative. After court proceedings were filed against Brunk, the Supreme Court held the statute unconstitutional, and pointed out that the only way the State Treasurer could be removed was through impeachment. Following this decision, Brunk resumed his office.

In view of the grave nature of the charges, it is the clear and urgent duty of the Legislature to sift them without delay. The integrity of the chief financial officer of the State, of all State officials, should not be open to question. With a cloud hanging over Brunk's name, he might well have refused to resume his office pending the Legislature's action. Since he did not do so, the Legislature has no more pressing business than to determine his innocence or guilt.

There is a shortage of bees in Missouri. However, there are plenty of would-bees.

A Cuban Editor Writes of Cuba's Plight

Nathan Straus

Despite official assurances to contrary, disorders prevail over Cuba; police club demonstrators, including women; President has closed all schools of higher education; he is blamed largely for economic situation and entirely for political chaos; editor joins students in asking that Machado and his Government resign to restore peace.

John T. Wilford, Editor, in the Havana Daily American.

The following editorial appeared in the Havana American on Jan. 9. The same day a governmental decree ordered suspension of the newspaper, along with eight other publications. Mr. Wilford has now been ordered deported.—Editor's note.

An anomalous situation prevails throughout Cuba. Official tranquillity reigns while disorders prevail. The Constitution and the courts function while the constitutional guarantees are suspended and hundreds are jailed and denied the rights of habeas corpus. The President backs up a reign of terror, and his army and police invade private homes and cart the inmates to prison.

Cuba, a theoretical Republic, has become an absolute monarchy, and the slightest disagreement with the policies of the President is classed as treason.

The National University and all the higher branches of learning are closed by presidential decree and the erstwhile students have nothing to do but nurse their well-founded grievances against the executive for the usurpation of functions in the school system that are legally delegated to others. Protest parades and meetings of the unemployed students, whether they be composed of girls or boys, are charged by the police with clubs, who strike recklessly, even to invading cafes and clubbing peaceful occupants. Yet "official tranquillity" prevails throughout Cuba.

The President, apparently opposed by every Cuban who is not dependent of the bounty of the Republic distributed to him, claims to be unmoved by the situation, and issues periodical statements to the press that he "has not resigned; has not thought of resigning; and knows no reason why he should resign." The political opposition, which does not include the students nor the industrial and commercial interests, barters for terms that may be personally beneficial, while an epidemic of suicides because of the economic stress adds victims daily.

Cuba's present unfortunate state is generally blamed on President Machado, and certainly he is, in considerable degree, responsible for the economic situation and entirely to blame for the political chaos. The students have openly demanded that he, with his entire Government, get out.

The opposing politicians insist that he is holding office illegally. The industrial and commercial interests know that business is being done at a loss, and here in Havana, as can be seen by the numerous vacant stores in the business districts, ruin has already overtaken many.

Business is stagnant in every section of the country. Laboring men are idle, and because of their idleness they and their dependents are suffering for the necessities of existence. Extravagant expenditures for so-called works of "beautification" about Havana and the excessive prices paid for the building of the central highway, together with the money sunk in the many dreams of the erstwhile "dynamic" Secretary of Public Works, have brought the country's credit to the lowest ebb since the foundation of the Republic.

The whole problem could be resolved in an hour. But only President Machado can resolve it. Patriotism demands that he act. The country's sufferings are too great, too pliant to bide political bartering. He should resign immediately, and normally will again be Cuba's.

The medical profession seeks the focus of contagion when confronted with an epidemic. Such was the mode employed to expel the scourge of the deadly yellow fever from Havana. Lives were sacrificed in the undertaking, sacrificed in the interest of humanity. The world has known no greater heroics, and history rings with the names of men and women who have made sacrifices for the good of others.

President Machado, regardless of all the good that can be credited to him, has now become the focus of the epidemic of economic and political discontent in Cuba. He can remove that focus of infection and the disease will disappear.

Circumstances demand the sacrifice. President Machado should resign the presidency that Cuba may regain its health. His entire Government should follow his example. It should be done today. It should be done now.

Language of the Big Woods

Stewart H. Holbrook in American Forests.

THE woods has a language of its own. Much of it comparatively new. Fallers and buckers, respectively, cut the timber and saw it into short lengths; they work under a bull-bucker. The yarding crew is in charge of a hook-tender and is composed of chasers, checkmen, rigging-slingers, and a whistle-punk, who, with jerk-wire or electric whistle, gives signals to the yarding engineer, often out of sight of the yarding crew.

The railroad track gang are gandy-dancers, bossed by a king-anip. The camp foreman, of course, is the push. The superintendent of a logging operation is the boss of the woods. A highball camp is one where work is speeded too much. Haywire, now adopted in general speech, means almost anything that is worthless in the mind of the user of the term. A bum show is where timber is poor or logging difficult. Gyppo is piece-work or contract-work; it is also termed by the mile, by the inch, or simply bushel work.

A member of the I. W. W. is a wobbly. A hooper is a man who doesn't know his job. Horses are hay-burners. A teamster is a hair-pounder. The bull-cook doesn't cook at all, despite pulp-paper writers; he is the chere boy around camp. A cookee or flunkie is a cook's helper.

A New Theory
THE DYNAMIC UNIVERSE. By Percy Mackaye. (Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York City, $3.50.)

It is a curious fact that while psychological theory, which vies originally anything but materialistic in its nature, has been drifting rapidly in the direction of absolute materialism, as now represented by behaviorism, theory in the realm of physics, which originates in the direction of non-materialistic materialism, has been drifting with equal rapidity toward the negation of materialistic conceptions. The same curious intermingling of characteristic roles has taken place between Science and Art; for more and more favored the literal sense-view of the world—which they are persuaded to regard as "realism"—the scientists, in their "advances" in theorizing, have become distinctly poetic, so much so that they have passed quite out of the realm of sense perception into a fantastic realm of symbols and mathematical concepts that strike not only a layman, but even a goodly number of finely trained physicists and philosophers, as being little more than metaphysics. In that attenuated form which has been described as a "disease of language."

Victorian science hoped to explain all phenomena as the results of matter in motion; and matter in those days definitely meant an aggregation of hard and indestructible pellets as "real" as marbles, though sufficiently small to be sufficiently mysterious for purposes of explanation. But analysis of those pellets, we understand, or rather we are told, has resulted in the discovery that they are composed of nothing but points of positive and negative electricity whirling about each other like little solar systems. We used to think we had at least the ether—that is to say, a name for the physicists of the vast ether through which light waves moved; but we are told now by some of the most eminent of the advanced scientific theorists that ether has been abolished. It is true that this and other losses have been compensated by such clarifying discoveries as a finite universe, "curved space" and a fourth dimension, with an infinite series of other dimensions waiting to oblige whenever it may seem necessary to get even farther away from anything humanly conceivable by way of making everything exceedingly clear.

Now, considering the intensely and almost exclusively materialistic persuasion of our living world of men and women today, it was inevitable that sooner or later some thinker would undertake to grasp the flying cat-tails of our escaping physicists of the vast ether and drag them back into something like a recognizable sense-world, where physical means physical, and matter is something more than a mathematical expression. This, with proper apologies for the homely language employed, may be said to be what James Mackaye has undertaken to do in "The Dynamic Universe."

Dr. Mackaye is professor of philosophy in Dartmouth College. He is a son of the late Steel Mackaye, Tourists Flood-Road by the Associated Press. ATHENS, Jan. 15.—The plains of These have destroyed a railway between Neos, marooning a passenger train at Naur, four feet deep in snow. Twenty have swept away in a night.

A New Theory

THE DYNAMIC UNIVERSE. By James Mackay. (Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York City, $1.50.)

It is a curious fact that while psychological theory, which was originally anything but materialistic in its nature, has been drifting rapidly in the direction of being materialistic, as now represented by behaviorism, theory in the realm of physics, which originally was nothing but absolute materialism, has been drifting rapidly in the direction of being metaphysical. and brother of the famous poet, Percy Mackay. In reading his work, it is apparent, even to a layman, that he is not the sort of philosopher who indulges in windy abstractions, but that his grasp of the scientific data involved in his discussion must be remarkable, and we are told that he spent many years in chemical and physical research before he abandoned engineering for philosophy.

What he presents here, in provisional form, is a new "radiation theory" of the universe, designed to explain the structure of material bodies and the cause of change of motion therein, without recourse to any but physical conceptions, and only those which are based upon phenomena familiar to the practical physicist. The basic assumption, reasonably justified by certain observed phenomena, is that there is no "empty space"; that the ether is a physical reality and universal, composed of matter in some attenuated form, the units of which the author terms "matrons." Each of these matrons is a center of radiation, "apparently differing from light only in frequency of wave length," and all the properties attributed to this etherial radiation by way of explaining physical phenomena are those properties which "are known to be possessed by light."

It would be useless to attempt in an article even a very perfunctory statement of the striking manner in which the author employs his theory in constructing a logical universe of a recognizably physical character; but his explanation of gravity may be given briefly as an example of the possibilities of his theory.

A given body, say the earth, is subjected on all sides to the constant pressure of this etherial radiation, and so long as the radiation pressure is equal all around, no change of motion is occasioned by the pressure. But introduced on one side, say the moon, in the neighborhood of the earth, and the two tend to approach each other. The tendency we call gravity, but the author maintains that this is not an explanation, and the author maintains that this phenomenon has never been explained. Reasoning from the observed action of light radiation in its impingement upon a body, Dr. Mackay assumes that a portion of the etherial radiation is absorbed, while a smaller portion is re-emitted. The phenomenon he likens to fluorescence of light. The re-emitted radiation he calls "G-radiation." Both the moon and the earth emitting "G-radiation," the normal etherial pressure on their opposed sides will be reduced by exactly the amount of the "G-radiation" of both the result being that the two bodies are thrust toward each other by the etherial pressure on the opposite sides of each. Gravity thus becomes a push and not a pull, as we have commonly assumed; and the same principle applies to all bodies of matter, however small.

Dr. Mackay's radiation theory involves a serious clash with certain vital phases of Einstein's universe, and the criticisms of the radiation theory are often most amusing, though certainly never trivial.

"FLYING DUTCHMAN"

CREDITABLY GIVEN

Conductor von Schillings Wins Honors in First of Series of Grand Operas.

"THE FLYING DUTCHMAN," by Richard Wagner, was given at the Grand Opera House last night, the first of a series of grand operas.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.
THE German Opera Company began a three-day engagement in St. Louis last night at the Grand Opera House with a highly creditable performance of Richard Wagner's "Flying Dutchman." An audience that filled about three-fourths of the auditorium was obviously pleased with the production and gave the production and the conductor, Max von Schillings, a standing ovation at the end of the second act.

"The Flying Dutchman" was presented in St. Louis about 15 years ago for the first time, and only prior to last night's production and the local public, therefore, was acquainted with the music largely through the overture. Strangely enough, the overture of the whole opera, despite the fact that it contains all of the important musical material. The overture stands much closer to the ultimate Wagner than the opera itself, and one does not realize the extent to which the composer, at this period, is still in debt to Meyerbeer and Weber until he has heard the passages between the Dutchman and Senta in the first act, when the music allotted to Erik in the second act and the duet between the Dutchman and Senta. Nor can one help feeling that this music is both the dimmest sort of prospect of the real Wagner and not too flattering echo of his prototype.

Individual Performances.
Even so there is enough agreeable music in the opera to fill an evening. I have already liked the Steersman's song in the first act and found it good in last night's production. The music of the spinning scene also manages to preserve its charm, the Norwegian sea scene is a masterpiece of atmospheric and melodic effectiveness and Senta's ballad makes a strong impression through its dramatically descriptive qualities.

The singing cast in last night's production maintained a remarkably high standard. The best voice in the cast was that of Carl Hartman, who sang the tenor role of Erik. It was a fresh voice, warmly resonant and reasonably sure in its intonation. Richard Grosse, who sang the role of the Dutchman, was a Dutchman and Margaret Baumer as Senta were more at home in their roles. Somebody should tell Hartman what to do with his hands and warn him against beating time with his foot. The male chorus was not large enough for the necessities of the score. A part of the third act—that in which the crew of the Dutchman's ship sing about the elimination, presumably because there was nobody to sing the music. Fortunately, this was a cut that in no way affected the working out of the plot.

Conductor's Work Skillful.
The honors of the evening belonged to the conductor, Dr. Max von Schillings, who shepherded his limited resources in such a way as to bring out their maximum effectiveness. Despite the fact that the orchestra numbered only 54 and had been playing together for only a short time, Dr. von Schillings managed to achieve an approximation of tonal balance without sacrifice of a necessary brilliance. Only a strong hand at the helm could have maintained such a justness of tempo and dynamic proportions. The agreement between singers and orchestra was properly maintained, the mass effects were always compact and the performance moved steadily and with an unflagging vitality.

Mosart's "Don Juan" will be presented tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock. Saturday afternoon Johann Gadsak will sing in D'Alberty's "Tiefland" and the company will conclude its engagement Saturday evening with a performance of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

DR. W. C. BITTING MEMORIAL

The memorial meeting in honor of the Rev. Dr. William C. Bitting, late former pastor at Second Baptist Church last night, was largely attended. The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Church and the Rev. Dr. George A. Campbell of Union Avenue Christian Church were among the speakers.

A tribute to Dr. Bitting is contained in this week's issue of the bulletin of United Hebrew Congregation, Rabbi Samuel Thurman being the writer. The congregation, when in its former quarters on Kingshighway, used the Second Baptist edifice, by invitation of Dr. Bitting and the church board, for the principal Jewish holidays for six years.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

TO SERVE AT TEA

ANNOUNCEMENT will be made tomorrow in Chicago by Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Wyles of Highland Park of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Trickett Wyles, and William Prague Coleman Jr., Madison, Wis., son of Col. and Mrs. W. P. Coleman of Fort Mead, Charleston, S. C.

The announcement is of much interest in St. Louis, where Miss Wyles has frequently visited as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Anthony B. Day, 107 Aberdeen place. Miss Wyles is a graduate of Castilleja in Palo Alto, Cal., and was presented to society last October at a party given by her parents at the Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park. She participated in many of the debutante parties in St. Louis, and shared honors with her cousin, Miss Grace Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKittick Jones, at a night club costume dance given by Dr. and Mrs. Day a few weeks ago. Mrs. Wyles is a sister of Mrs. Robert McKittick Jones, 6 Westmoreland place.

Mr. Coleman attended the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. The wedding will take place early in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyles are planning a dinner dance for their daughter the evening of Jan. 24 at the Exmoor Country Club instead of the announced party tomorrow. Miss Wyles will come to St. Louis in February for another visit with Dr. and Mrs. Day.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Love, Lady duane road, returned home today from a visit in New York where they were guests at the Montclair Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Post, 22 Dromedary road, St. Louis County, have as their guest Mrs. Wingfield Richter of Milwaukee, who is being entertained informally. NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 15.

THE contemplated cost for naval expansion under the first year program for bringing our fleet up to the London limitation treaty standard exceeds $128,000,000. This is only a small beginning but there does not seem to be any escape from paying it.

Grey of Palladen tells us of the error he believes Germany made before the war, when England proposed a naval holiday. He was not in office at the time of the Geneva or the London conference. Had the British government applied his reasoning to the situation existing at those conferences a very large sum would be saved to taxpayers of both countries. We know that the British navy is not built against us. We know they have no reason to think our navy is built against them or any other nation. We can afford to pay a large price to end competition. That is a consolation. But when European people are in distress it is difficult to understand why they insist on large armaments or why those who are most distressed complain the most because their armaments are limited. They ought to rejoice in a new-found freedom.

MEMORY OF MARSHAL JOFFRE HONORED AT SERVICE HERE

Robert Burkhart Principal Speaker at Program Under Auspices of the French Society.

Memorial services for Gen. Joseph Jacques Joffre, Marshal of France and World War hero, were held last night by the French Society of St. Louis at the Wagoner chapel, 3621 Olive street.

Robert Burkhart, former Colonel in the United States Army and an officer of the Legion of Honor, was principal speaker, describing the battle of the Marne, under Joffre's leadership, as the turning point of the war.

Other speakers were Marc Seguin, French Consul here; H. C. Blanton, State commander of the American Legion, and Capt. Charles Viall and Capt. Henri DeLecue, former officers of the French Army. J. B. Gury, president of the French Society, presided.

Boston Girl and Son of Marshall Field Chairman Are Married at Alken, S. C.

By the Associated Press.
AIKEN, S. C., Jan. 15.—Miss Ella de Traville Snelling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Paul Snelling of Boston, and James Simpson Jr., son of the chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, were married today.

The ceremony, performed in the winter home of the bride's parents, was witnessed by less than a dozen persons. There were no attendants. The Rev. Dr. S. L. McCarthy, Presbyterian minister of Augusta, Ga., officiated.

The bride was dressed in a brown traveling outfit. Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left for New York, where, it is understood, they will sail for Bermuda.

New York Day by Day

THOUGHTS while strolling: The sidewalk fountain pen demonstrator who takes a taste of ink now and then. Elmer Rogers of the Palace. The restaurant Princess, where Pierre started. Leonore Ulric never stands still. Nobody imitates stage stars so well as Willie Howard.

Charles R. Driscoll, a Wichita (Kan.) boy, who made good in the city. What became of tutti-frutti gum? They say Al Capone financed many midget golf courses. Everybody seems terrorized by Capone, the big stiff. (You know me, Al. Always kidding.) A sort of pathetic eagerness about young Teddy Roosevelt.

Blustering Richard Bennett. But a great actor. A woman lurches out of a speakeasy, mumbling. A camel's hide cigarette case—$10. Ceres and her cornucopia in La-ligue glass. Electrically faked log fires—no warmth but a swell illusion. Just like gold diggers.

Another block sign across the Winter Garden. Show girls going in for Great Danes. Frazier Hunt is the only writer I know who doesn't smoke. What a lucky guy! Arthur Hopkins suggests Old King Cole in miniature. Wonder if Marlene Dietrich's success worries Garbo?

The rat-a-tat-tat of upstairs tap dancing schools. Three theaters dark in a block. (If that left-over fly alights on this paper again, it is taking chances.) How many remember a desert dish called sillabub?

Most men-about-town types are bored. All child actors trained under Gus Edwards talk alike—Eddie Cantor, George Jessel and George Price, for instance. Mid-town's acres of pent houses—like villages clinging to Pyrenean crags.

Incandescents ripple into nightly twinkle. Times Square a frozen lacoon in flame. Grover Wilson drives by with a red nose in his lapel. Overhead: "She's not bad—just modern!" That gentle bleakness of a Fifth avenue night. And above, a cold white star.

JIMMIE JAMES, one of the most popular European correspondents, will be missed by his American friends this summer and likely for summers to come. His roving days are over. He is now chained to a night managing editor's desk in the editorial rooms of the Times. It comes as a deserved promotion, but deprives the journalistic world of a bang-up reporter.

GEN. GRANT'S old home at No. 2 East Sixty-sixth street has been demolished to make way for a new apartment house. The four-story brown-stone mansion was presented to the war hero and wife by admirers shortly after his world tour. Following his years of military service and two terms in the White House, he planned to live in quiet retirement. While writing his memoirs he heard of the tragic failure of his Wall street house—Grant & Ward.

OLDER New Yorkers recall how reeling crowds churned about under Gen. Grant's windows when the financial collapse was announced. He was then nearing the Great Adventure, and could speak only with difficulty. On an afternoon in June, 1885, his neighbors recall the stocky, bearded man with high hat and deep, burning eyes going for his last drive in Central Park. He was seen no more by the public and passed away a month later near Saratoga Springs.

THERE is something of a choke in this lost ad in a New York paper: "White poodle, pink, running eyes, body twitch the result of dismemberment and almost toothless. No value except to owner." Every dog lover understands.

WHERE, inquires Miss T. F.—and the stationery is scented, too—"do you find those extraordinarily big words you use?" Most of them in the dictionary at my left. But some of those $5.88 ones I make up right in my own head.

In an essay today there was a phrase that suddenly crossed my eyes and sent me spinning. It read: "In the law of his parabolic morphology"—I'm afraid to look it up. I just know it is something about sex again.

SAYS NATION SUFFERS FROM OVER-PREDICTION

Horace Bowker, Fertilizer Manufacturer, Deplores Pessimism Run Wild.

This country is suffering not only from overproduction, but from over-prediction, Horace Bowker of New York told the Agricultural Club of the Chamber of Commerce, at its luncheon at Hotel Statler today. Bowker is president of the American Agricultural Chemical Co., large manufacturers of fertilizer. His speech on "The Farm and the Next Prosperity," which was heard also by the Sales Managers' Bureau, was broadcast by radio.

Not long ago, Bowker said, over-prediction ran wild in the direction of optimism; now it is expressing an unlimited and unnecessary pessimism.

"The collapse of agricultural values was one of the primary causes of our present depression," Bowker said. "It came out of the slump, it is logical to expect the recovery of agriculture to be a fact before better times arrive."

"We cannot expect to maintain the present standard of living in this country unless we increase the farmer's purchasing power. Increasing the ability of 27,000,000 persons to buy manufactured products is a necessary forerunner of a resumption of business that will drive all industries ahead to a new and greater prosperity."

Says All Prosper or Suffer Alike.

Bowker said the country had gone through the stages of mass production and high wages, and was reaching a realization that the prosperity of the entire nation was closely related to the well-being of every part. "All must prosper, high wages must be for all," he said, "and we are facing the fact that in 'all' we must include the farmer."

Declaring that acreage reduction was a misnomer, the speaker said what was needed was acreage adjustment. Acreage reduction has been advocated by the Federal Farm Board.

"Our surveys indicate," he said, "that many farmers react to these sweeping suggestions to reduce acreage by not reducing acreage at all, but by farming practically the same acreage less efficiently. The farmer uses less fertilizer, or none at all; he defers the purchase of needed implements or other cost reducing improvements; he uses cheaper seed, and aims through these and similar expedients to reduce expenses. Obviously the net result is decreased operating efficiency, which inevitably increases the cost of producing each bushel or pound of crop, or of livestock."

Efficient Farming Needed.

Industry, Bowker said, must support those forces that make for a greater spread of farming knowledge. The best educated farmers are the ones weathering the present storm best. Industry must also see that farming is entitled to a well-thought-out long-time farm policy, which this nation thus far has failed to provide, he said.

Bowker stressed the need for increased agricultural research for the utilization of what are now waste products. "For every pound of corn we get two pounds of stalk and cob," said the speaker, "and for every pound of cotton 20 pounds of stalk and trash. Whole industries now flourish on what were once so-called waste products, and the same situation can be brought about by further research which will utilize more of the products of the farm."

For the farmer's part in a program for returning prosperity, the speaker outlined the use of higher producing animals, better feeding, record keeping, more extensive use of clovers and fertilizers for soil and crop improvement.

Cutting the Cost.

"Every so-called improvement advocated by our Department of Agriculture," he said, "has for its object not an increase of production as an end in itself, but a lowering of production costs. They are working toward a practical solution of a problem that confronts farmers today, and not for the solution of a theory that every farmer, regardless of how high his production costs, is entitled to a profit."

"For if the cost of any commodity were high enough to afford every producer a profit on it, the high cost producers would make the price prohibitive to consumers. No remedy is sound that defeats its own ends."

100 HINDUS HURT IN CLASHES WITH BOMBAY POLICE

volunteers had repeatedly refused to disperse and deliberately courted disaster that the police resorted to use of their staves, and even then the blows were confined to the lower limbs of the demonstrators.

Authorities said they were determined to frustrate such public manifestations as the monster parade and demonstration on the Maidan Esplanade that the Nationalists planned for this afternoon.

As quickly as the police would strike one of the demonstrators he would fall over as though mortally wounded, and Nationalist stretcher bearers, volunteers of the All-India National Congress, would rush to his side and carry him off to a waiting ambulance.

There is said to be a keen rivalry among the various congress hospitals to get the largest number of "casualties," with a view to appealing to public sentiment.

HEARING ON UNION ELECTRIC AUDIT ADJOURNED TO MONDAY

City is Trying to Induce Public Service Commission to Reduce Rates.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 16.—The hearing by the State Public Service Commission on the audit made by its accountants of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis was adjourned yesterday until Monday.

On the basis of the valuation assigned to the company's property in the report of the Commission's accountants, the City of St. Louis is seeking to have the Commission order a reduction in rates of approximately 25 per cent which would aggregate $1,000,000 a year.

The company is disputing the valuation assigned in the audit but has not yet presented any of its evidence. Its counsel, Theodore Rausleur, in cross-examination of the city's witnesses, has indicated that it will question the competency not only of the Commission audit but of the appraisal and valuation made by the Commission in 1916.

WALL STREET
ADVANCES IN STOCK LIST
BUT TRADING IS SLUGGISHShare Prices Regain Much of the Losses of the Previous Session as Short Lines Are Hastily Withdrawn in the Final Hour.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Bears found the stock market unresponsive to their efforts today, and share prices regained much of their loss of the previous session, as short lines were hastily withdrawn in the final hour.Trading was extremely sluggish and prices drifted uncertainly during most of the session, but the last developed considerable strength before the finish. The day's transfers totaled only about 1,350,000 shares, but the market closed with a strong tone.Shares closing two to more than three points higher included United States Steel, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, Atchafson, Auburn, Case, Westinghouse Electric, Western Union and Public Service of New Jersey. Motion picture issues came up in the final dealings, with General Theater gaining nearly two, and Loew's and Paramount one.

Shares closing a point or so higher included American Can, American Smelting, General Electric and Union Carbide. Bethlehem Steel was under considerable pressure for a time, selling down two, but closing off only one. Sears was depressed 1½ points, but regained all but ¾.In the foreign exchanges, the efforts to check the flow of gold from London to Paris were reflected in another sag in the franc, while sterling was up 1-32 at $4.85 7-16 for cables. The pester recovered part of its sharp loss of the previous day.News of a character to influence the security markets was almost completely lacking, and traders in the main were content to stay on the sidelines. It was generally acknowledged in brokerage circles that yesterday's decline was accompanied by extensive bear selling, but it was sharp enough to inspire caution.In addition to wheat, silver was again under pressure, slipping back ½¢ to 28¼¢ an ounce, duplicating the historical low established a week ago. The talk of plans to make an international loan to China to stabilize the metal appears to have brought out considerable opposition in banking circles where feasibility of such action is questioned.On the other hand, export copper prices for March and April shipment were increased .05 and

.10 of one cent a pound, respectively. Export sales continued in fair volume, but domestic buying was still quiet, and it was said in trade circles that the situation during the next few weeks will depend upon continued demand from abroad.It was notable that the annual weekly index of commodity prices showed a negligible change from the previous week. For five weeks it has fluctuated within a range of less than half a point, the narrowest movement in a year. This lends support to the hope that stability is being or has been achieved.Furthermore, the annual index of business activity, as announced in preliminary form for December,

WORTH SMITH AND ED O'DEY ARE CLOSE UP WITH 220 CARDS

By the Associated Press.
AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 16.—Johnny Golden, Norton (Conn.) pro, who led for the first and second rounds against the front man of the early finishers in the Agua Caliente golf tournament today, shooting a 76 for a 219 total at the top of 54 holes.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., in second place yesterday, also had a 76 for a 220 total, still a stroke behind Golden. He was out in 39 and back in 37 while Golden had a pair of 21s. Gene Sarazen, defending champion, finished with a 38-37-75 for 222.

Horton Smith blew his chance to finish the third round in a tie for first place by taking a 49 on his home going out in 34. This gave him a 73, one over par, and allowed him to move into a temporary tie for second with Dudley with a 220 total.

Smith made a great try for a 72 but his 100-foot putt was two feet past the cup, good enough for a par 3, however.

Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., in the third place yesterday with 146, shot a 76 today for 222.

BILLIKENS AND BEARS WILL USE REGULAR FIVES

By James M. Gould.

Even with half the basketball season gone, there may yet be some experimenting by Washington U. and St. Louis U. coaches but there will be none before tomorrow night when the Billikens and Bears meet in the first of their series for the college title. Each coach realizes that his most powerful combination will be needed to win and, therefore, the coaches' lineups already are decided upon.

Coach Nyikos at St. Louis professes to be not entirely satisfied with the work of one or two of his men who have been playing thus far but the five players who have been prominent in early games will take the floor tomorrow night. Nyikos has tried several permutations, combinations and arrangements but after his several shuffles has evolved a team which is composed of Joe and Frank Kennedy at forward, Grandoni at center and Captain Hunt and Les Roberts at guards.

It is the same at Washington. Don White, coach of the Bears with the work of one or two of his men who have been playing thus far but the five players who have been prominent in early games will take the floor tomorrow night. Nyikos has tried several permutations, combinations and arrangements but after his several shuffles has evolved a team which is composed of Joe and Frank Kennedy at forward, Grandoni at center and Captain Hunt and Les Roberts at guards.

Same Old Smile.

SEE by the papers. Our old friend, Sunny Jim, will stick to Broad'n's Red. And the fans will stick to him. The past is forgotten. At batting slumps he'll scoff, and free from care once more he'll wear.

That smile that won't come off.

Okay, Panto.
Clarence "Panto" Rowlands, former umpire and manager, is now a club owner by right of purchase, having acquired the Reading (Pa.) club. In keeping with the new dignity of ownership, he would like to be known in the future as "Trousers."

Clarence was a good manager and a good umpire and he ought to make a good owner. He'll find it much easier.

All the owner has to do is worry about the bills and keep the ball rolling. Anybody can do that if he makes money.

Receiver Appointed for Chain Stores.
Demonstrating that a chain store is no stronger than its weakest link.

House Authorities $74,030,000 for Navy.
A sort of a sinking fund, we take it.

Win Won.
Win Day, a 15-year-old Chicago boy, won the Miami Midwinter Amateur golf tournament.

Though just a boy, it seems Win Day at golf has quite a winning way.

That robot they are using in England as a timekeeper for boxing bouts ought to do a good job of timekeeping if they don't forget to wind him up.

His only weakness is that he strikes 10 instead of counting it, so the countee just coming out of a coma doesn't know just how far he has to go before changing cars.

If he doesn't make good as a timekeeper maybe he could be used as a baseball pitcher. One good "iron man" could probably last through nine innings.

Of course he would have to be carefully oiled between innings and the bat boy would have to dash out and hand him his sweater in case he got on first base to keep his pitching arm from getting rusty.

But where the fans would get the biggest kick out of a robot would be acting as coach at third base. He can talk.

See where Primo Carnera is in our midst again. His present training consists mostly of cross-country runs with a view to catching up with some of our heavyweights.

When Max Schmeling was informed that the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling bout would meet Carnera in the finals, he shook his head so vigorously his crown nearly fell off.

There is no doubt that Max doesn't regard Primo as any part of a boon and that he would prefer to do his mountain-climbing in the regular way, with regular ropes that serve a life line instead of something to be bounced off of.

St. Marks Girls Team Wins 12th Basketball Victory

St. Mark's Girls High School basketball team evens up their score with the Concordia Turners Girls team when they defeated the latter at St. Mark's Hall last night. It was the winners' twelfth victory of the season. With the score tied, 11-11, in the last minute of play, each team was awarded a free shot from the foul line; the Turners failed to score but the St. Marks player tallied for the winning point, 12-11.

On Jan. 4 the Concordia Turners beat St. Marks, 15-15, thereby breaking a winning streak which had reached 11 straight games. Last night's game was in the nature of a return engagement. The Concordia players are members of strong league teams. Miss Burkhart is with the Peets team, Miss Fredricks with the Trojans, Miss Schworn with the Angelicas.

The box score:

Principia Plays Burroughs.
Principia Academy will be host to the John Burroughs "A" soccer team this afternoon in the Cadets' first official game of the A. B. C. League this season. The Price Roaders lead to Country Day last Friday, 1-0.

By Harold Tutbill.
The two leaders in the City High School League basketball race, Soltan and Beaumont, will seek to improve their positions tonight when Beaumont meets Central and Soltan opposes Cleveland in the doubleheader at the St. Louis University Gymnasium. The first game starts at 8 o'clock.

There's little doubt that Beaumont will run over Central, although the North Siders suffered a loss of prestige when they bowed to McBride earlier in the week, for their first defeat of the season.

Coach Lewis will start Arthur Gerst and Hayward Gray at the forwards; Toberman at center and Campbell Elliott and Bob Kibitz at the guards. Barring injuries and ineptitudes, this lineup should will start for Beaumont the balance of the season.

Central will close its first half of the season. The Mid-cityans have lost to the three other contenders of the league. Coach Alfred Friedl will use the same five that was humbled by Cleveland last week. This quintet is composed of Junior Sneed and Henry Krey, forwards; Albert Rau, center, and Julian Journe and Morris Garden, guards.

Coach Harry White plans changes in the Soltan lineup, so that Harry Middleton and Ham Card will be the forwards; George Zonia the center and Bob Lahey and Howard Butts, the guards. White will be ready to send in Lee Handley and Kiefer Hasselman in the event that the starting five cannot stop the Cleveland rushes.

Although the Cleveland team compensates for its smallness in stature by clever floor work, yet the five of Ray Landry and Edgar Vogt, forwards; Bob Wilfert, center; A. J. Clarence Pohrer and Roy Mickla, guards, does not seem tall enough to check the fast-moving Soltan team. After this game Coach Bert E. Ferguson will send Ralph Landry, Ray's twin brother, to the squad and will lose Roy Pasglugh by graduation. Ralph Landry was ineligible the first half.

Roosevelt, which draws the bye, will meet the Principia Junior College team tonight at the Howard gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock. The probable lineups:

High School Basketball Teams Play 11 League Contests; 3 Fives Go to Boonville

By W. J. McGoogan.
Elmer Polkinghorne, Western A. U. welterweight champion, failed in his effort to avenge his defeat at the hands of Earl Taylor of Jefferson Barracks at the South Broadway A. C. last night when Taylor won a decision over him.

Linger knocking Polkinghorne down twice in the third round, Taylor a nine count and once for seven. Polkinghorne sent Taylor to the floor in the first round but Taylor didn't stay down long enough for a count.

The soldier boxer appeared to be in great condition while Polkinghorne was flabby and Taylor's margin of victory was decisive.

The bout was the final of a nine-fight card and in the previous eight fights not one boxer was put on the floor and there were no knockouts in any of the bouts. About 800 persons attended.

Carl Lingenfelter scored his second victory in the iron. He defeated Mike Logliolo of the South Broadway in another special bout. This was also a return match, Logliolo having defeated Lingenfelter in their previous meeting. Lingenfelter won from Harry Greb at the D.A. show Monday night.

In defeating Logliolo, Lingenfelter showed fine boxing form and continued improvement over his earlier fights. He kept his left hand working in Logliolo's face and came across with a few stiff right hand punches also. Logliolo's eye and mouth were cut in the engagement.

Harry Greb of the Business Men's A. C. had a narrow escape from losing his second bout of the week, but he finally triumphed over Carl Schaffer of the South Broadway after four rounds. The referee was the cast the deciding vote in Greb's favor after the judges had disagreed following the extra session.

WOLLYN RAYS

He May Get Hurt.
JACK DEMPSEY, who announced in 1928 through this writer, that he would never fight again, and who since has confirmed the statement, is having his retirement put to a severe test by the Garrulous Gobbler, Jack Sharkey.

Sharkey, viewed as being ranked third in Dempsey's ratings, is daring Dempsey to fight him for charity—or something. Having slipped out of the picture as an immediate heavyweight hope, he now wants to attract notice to himself by climbing into Dempsey's publicity wagon.

Better lay off the Old Mauler, Mr. Sharkey. Dempsey might get mad and take you up. Your 1927 sample of Dempsey's medicine ought to tell you the rest.

Carnera vs. Sharkey?

OUT of the shack of the New York heavyweight fight muddle comes an unofficial tip that Jack Sharkey vs. Primo Carnera is a match that is on the iron.

In order for this proposal to take form, the New York Commission would have to lift the suspension on Carnera and his handlers. The event, it is said, is being arranged in the interest of a charity—which may win some consideration from the athletic board.

It is unlikely, however, that the commission will lift the suspension until California does likewise, for New York imposed its ban following California's move. And the California commission recently indicated it would not lift the suspension at all.

A Sharkey-Carnera fight would be interesting. Dempsey thinks Sharkey could knock out Carnera. There would be a stadium full of people who would willingly pay to see it done.

What makes the match unlikely is that Carnera, already has been chosen to face the winner of the Stribling-Schmeling fight, which will carry the title.

Primo's managers will prove themselves real sportsmen if they take a chance by matching Carnera with Sharkey, when the title is lurking just around the corner. "Nobody barred" was the Carnera slogan last year. Will it be the same now?

Here's a New One.

FRANK BRUEN, having lost out on a "big shot" for his February boxing show, is now said to have offered Sharkey $100,000 to fight Mickey Walker. There's one that Sharkey ought to take and hog tie. Mickey is made to order for Sharkey, not to mention the 30 pounds weight advantage the former sailor would have. Mickey can hit, but he is no Dempsey and he could not afford to give away such poundage to a man of Sharkey's quality.

While it is customary to belittle Sharkey, he is really quite a clever fighter. He is entirely too clever for Mickey and despite the lack of a really jarring wallop, ought to wear Mickey down and possibly put him away. Jack would need all his "insides" in good order. Mickey is a per-

'Rushing Squad' and 76 Ushers To Suppress Seat Crashers and Smoking at Wrestling Shows

By Damon Kerby.
Promoter Tom Packs, the man behind the gun in the wrestling boom in St. Louis, does not plan to rest on the success he has attained thus far. He expects to continue to push the game here in order to keep it on a firm basis in the years to come.

The St. Louis wrestling promoter at the last show had in a new ushering service. There were 46 ushers in the show, and at his next show, next Wednesday night, the service will be increased by 30 young men, making a total of 76 ushers.

After the show begins the 30 ushers in the upper balcony will be moved down to the boxes, with an usher stationed at the steps of each box around the Coliseum, to break up the practice of persons with cheaper seat coupons or no seat checks at all, "crushing" their sections and thus interfering with the show.

Also, the long but so far futile effort to break up the practice of smoking in the Coliseum during the shows will be continued. As has been told, smoking is not tolerated in the Coliseum, Philadelphia and other large boxing and wrestling centers, and Packs sees no good reason why it should be tolerated here. Ushers have been instructed to warn the customers in the boxes, but they have not been able to do so.

The "Blue Ship" Plan.
Packs told the Post-Dispatch of his system of distributing seats, which will be 50 or 75 cents, entitle the holder to admission to a wrestling show. This system

There are six men on Tom Packs' payroll, known nominally as "guards," but who have been dubbed by Packs as his "rushing squad." And when a man is "rushed" by that squad he stays "rushed" for the evening. Parks always has maintained this squad but he plans to have them more diligent than ever before in keeping down annoyances to customers.

SERVE SALLY LUNN WITH FRUIT JAM

This Food Service Makes a Simple and Delicious Home Dessert.

Sally Lunn is the name of an old-fashioned hot bread that was a favorite for tea time. Originally it was made with yeast, and still is for that matter, but there is a quick variety made with baking powder to suit twentieth century demands for speed, and that is delicious to serve either as a hot bread or as a dessert. When spread with raspberry jam, or whatever kind is the particular favorite, it is as good as home cooks had better plan to make the rest of the meal simple and save plenty of room for two helpings.

The recipe that follows will serve four people with "company helpings" or two with good appetites. Bake it in a layer cake pan and cut in pie shaped pieces for serving, splitting each piece through the center and spreading with a liberal amount of jam. Serve warm, the jam melts and runs through in a most pleasing and "jummy" manner.

Sally Lunn Recipe.
The recipe calls for one-fourth cup shortening, one-fourth cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup milk, one and one-fourth cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. A medium-sized layer cake pan or small muffin tin may be used to bake the Sally Lunn.

Work the sugar and shortening together until the mixture is blended to a smooth cream. Add the egg and beat until smooth again. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. The batter should be just a little thinner than for layer cake. Pour into a greased layer cake pan or into four greased medium sized muffin pans. Bake in a hot oven—375 to 400 degrees—for 20 to 25 minutes, depending on the depth of the pans.

When done remove from the oven and cool slightly. Remove from the pan, or serve from it, especially if a glass baking dish is used. Cut in pie-shaped pieces, place each piece on a plate and split through the center. Put a generous spoonful of jam on each side and serve at once. Be ready for second helpings, as they will surely be asked for.

The Sally Lunn that is made with yeast is a little different in texture, as most yeast breads are, from those raised with baking powder.

Put one tablespoon butter and two tablespoons of sugar in a bowl, add one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-half cup scalded milk. While this is cooling, mix one-half yeast cake with one-fourth cup lukewarm water. When the milk is lukewarm add the yeast, one beaten egg and about one and three-fourths cups flour or enough to make a batter of the consistency of cake batter. Cover and let rise until light—about two hours. Fill buttered muffin pans or a cake pan two-thirds full and let rise again until the pans are full. Bake 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven—350 to 375 degrees—and serve as above. This makes about one more serving than the quick Sally Lunn. Any leftover is delicious split and toasted.

Pineapple Rings.
Try sautéed pineapple rings with sausage as a change from apples. Use the canned pineapple, draining the slices thoroughly. When the sausage is cooked, put the pineapple slices in the hot sausage fat and sauté, or fry, gently until slightly browned. Drain and arrange around the meat.

The cranberry roll for Monday dinner is made by mixing two cups flour with three tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt and four teaspoons baking powder. Then five tablespoons of shortening are rubbed into the mixture and enough milk added to moisten it to a dough that can be rolled out on a floured board. Roll in a rectangular shape about one-eighth inch thick. Cut two cups cranberries in half, mix with one cup sugar and two tablespoons flour and spread over the dough. Roll up, pinch the edges together and place on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—for fifty minutes and serve warm with hard sauce.

Frozen Apricot Trifle. Rub the contents of a small can of apricots through a coarse strainer to make three-fourths cupful of pulp. Stewed, dried apricots may be used if more convenient. Sprinkle the fruit with one tablespoon of lemon juice and one-half cup powdered sugar. Whip until well mixed, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and whip all together for five minutes or longer. Pile lightly in the freezing tray of a mechanical refrigerator and freeze for two and one-half to three hours.

Fruit Tapioca. Stir one-third cup tapioca into two cups boiling water, add one-fourth teaspoon salt, a thin strip of lemon peel and one-fourth cup sugar. Cook for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. When the tapioca is clear and the mixture slightly thickened, remove from the fire, add two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup currant jelly, one-half cup thinly sliced dried figs, one-fourth cup seedless raisins and one small onion peeled and cut in dice. Mix lightly, put into sherbet glasses or individual serving dishes and chill. Serve with a spoonful of whipped, slightly sweetened cream on each serving.

Hermits. Cream one-half cup shortening with one and one-half cups sugar until well blended and smooth. Add two eggs and beat well. Stir in one-half cup milk. Sift three cups flour with one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon and one-half teaspoon cloves and one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg. Add to the first mixture and then stir in one cup mince meat or three-quarters cup chopped raisins and one-quarter cup finely chopped nuts. The mixture should be a very stiff batter that will drop from a spoon in little piles. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about three dozen hermits.

Cranberry Marmalade. Wash and pick over one quart of cranberries. Put in a pan with one and one-half cups water and boil for 15 minutes, or until the berries are well broken. Rub through a coarse strainer and measure. Add an equal amount of sugar, the grated rind of one orange and one-quarter cup orange juice.

Heat slowly to the boiling point to dissolve the sugar, then boil rapidly for 20 minutes, or until thickened. Stir frequently to prevent burning. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses or jars. Makes about five glasses of marmalade.

Chocolate Sauce for Shortcakes. Mix together three-quarters cup sugar and one teaspoon cornstarch. Melt three squares unsweetened chocolate over hot water and stir in the sugar, cornstarch and one-half cup milk. Stir constantly until the sugar is dissolved and then boil slowly for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the sauce is smooth and somewhat thickened. Remove from the fire, stir in one teaspoon vanilla and cool slightly before serving. For shortcakes, pour the sauce over plain small cupcakes and garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream.

HASH WITH POACHED EGG
Returned to Favor as a Company Breakfast Viand.

Mix and season corned beef, beef steak or fish hash on the day before it is to be served and pack it into the required number of individual oven glass or earthenware ramekins and store in the refrigerator. Twenty minutes before the breakfast-hour, make a small indentation in the center of each ramokin of hash and drop an egg therein. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, dot with butter and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees Fahrenheit until the egg is set. This is an easy dish to prepare for any number while the rest of breakfast is being arranged, and keeps gratifyingly hot.

HOT WATER SPONGE CAKE
Simple Directions for Baking This Popular Pastry.

Two egg yolks, one cup flour, three-eighths cup hot water, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two egg whites, one cup sugar, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract. Beat the eggs until very thick. Add half the sugar very slowly and continue the beating. Add the hot water, the rest of the sugar, the flavoring, the egg whites and the flour which has been mixed and sifted with the salt and baking powder. Bake 25 minutes in a buttered pan in a moderate oven.

PEAR SALAD SANDWICHES

ARE DISTINCTLY DIFFERENT
Popularity of Winter Pears Suggested This Delectable Tidbit.

The ingredients needed for these attractive sandwiches include six halves of canned pears, one-half cup lemon juice, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half cup blanched almonds, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon candied ginger, a dash of paprika, one cream cheese, a head of lettuce, enough vegetable coloring and enough cream to make a paste.

Cut pears in slices crosswise. Mix lemon juice with sugar and green coloring. Add pear slices and let stand until tinted, turning occasionally to make an even blend. Mix cheese with chopped almonds, ginger, salt and enough cream to make a smooth paste. Tint pink with paprika and spread on slices of pear; top with another slice of pear and place on lettuce leaf. Serve with French dressing.

Tempt the Appetite.
A prettily garnished fruit juice cocktail will help stimulate the child's appetite for his noon luncheon as well as add nutritive elements to the meal.

MINCED MEAT TOAST IS

A FINE BREAKFAST DISH
Also A Convenient Way to Utilize Leftover Steak and Roast Meats.

This is a nice breakfast or luncheon dish. Not only is it a savory dish, but it is also an excellent way of using up leftover portions of steaks, roasts and other meats.

To make it, take two and one-half cups leftover meat, two tablespoons chopped onions, two tablespoons chopped green peppers, four tablespoons water, one teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, one-third cup butter, three-fourths cup water and 12 slices crisp toast.

Pass meat through food chopper. Cook onion and green pepper in four tablespoons water for five minutes. Add to meat with salt, pepper, butter and three-quarters cup water. Cook 20 minutes in top of double boiler.

Butter hot toast and cover with meat mixture.

Thought for the Day.
The flavor and the appearance of food is as important as the quality and quantity. The sight and taste of palatable, attractively served food excites the flow of the digestive juices, which in turn help with good looking garnishes, or in the digestion of food. Therefore arranging attractive combinations time spent in dressing up dishes can in no wise be considered wasted.

PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

List the Supply of Foods to Be Used During the Next Few Days.

January and February seem to be the months that mark the low time of the year. There is a slump after the gaiety and activity of the Christmas season, and most persons long for change.

Those who are fortunate seek it in travel to warmer or colder climates, according to their temperaments, but those who must stay at home need not despair of change. There are many ingenious ways of achieving it, even in the most every day tasks of the home.
Housework must have its monotonous moments for so much of it has to be repetition—beds must be made over and over, food ordered, marketing done, meals prepared,
laundry sorted, mending done.
However, housewives need not get into too deep a rut with it all—there are ways of varying things.
If you have always used table cloths, try doilies or runners for a change; candle light at the dinner hour; change the furniture around in the room; put some of the pictures away for a while or hang them differently; buy a new cook book or go through the favorite paper and clip new recipes and ideas for serving foods—all trivial things in a way, but ones that are most effective in helping one over a dull period and in arousing new interest in old things.

This week's meals, as last week's have been planned to secure as much variety as possible, and to make use of a few new recipes and different ways of either cooking or serving well known foods. Cereal is omitted for Sunday morning's breakfast. Hot corn muffins are delicious with sausage and they may be mixed the night before and left in the icebox overnight, so that there need be no rush if you like a late breakfast. Marmalade, or jam always seems to add the finishing touch to hot breads and is especially appreciated in our household at the leisurely Sunday breakfast. When storeroom space is limited, as it is in most households of today, it is a good plan to make up four or five jars of jam or marmalade at a time; the recipe given for cranberry marmalade is for this comparatively small amount.

Many home managers prefer to switch Sunday dinner and supper, especially if they have a late breakfast and serve dinner at night.

Sunday night's supper uses broiled fresh mushrooms on toast and a jellyed tomato salad. Those who do not like the flavor of mushrooms may substitute a cheese sauce, or broiled sardines, or creamed shrimp. The salad is made from canned tomatoes well seasoned, thickened with gelatine and mixed with minced celery, sliced olives or sweet pickle and, if available, sliced cucumber. It is most attractive molded in individual shapes and served on lettuce with mayonnaise.

A very good black walnut flavored icing is made from the black walnut flavoring, adding it to a plain white or a maple icing. It is delicious on a dark spice cake, such as suggested for Sunday night.

Most of the lunches planned for the week, and one dinner, are made up of vegetables in order to insure sufficient regulatory foods in the diet—a health factor that is especially important this time of the year. Dinner on Wednesday is the vegetable one and is made up of a vegetable plate in which the baked stuffed potato forms the main part. The potatoes should be the large ones selected for baking. After baking until tender—about 45 minutes in a hot oven—cut a slice from the top of each, scoop out most of the pulp and mash it, seasoning with salt, pepper, paprika, butter and milk. Then add one-half cup grated or finely cut cheese to each four potatoes, and stuff the shells with the mixture. Place a thin slice of cheese on top of each potato and reheat in a hot oven.

Breakfast Fruit Service.
Sliced oranges sweetened with a little strained honey make a good breakfast or dessert fruit. Peel the oranges, cut away all the white rind and slice lengthwise in thin slices. Drip a spoonful of honey over each sliced orange and serve very cold.

TWO TASTY SERVICES
FROM A POT ROAST

Less Expensive Cuts of Beef
Will Serve Nicely for Pot Roasting.

When a pot roast or roast of meat is cooked using one of the less expensive cuts, such as the rump or chuck, it is a good plan to score, or mark, the fat with a knife at right angles to the grain of the meat, so that the person who carves will know in which direction to cut the slices. Generally meat is more tender when it is cut against the grain, but in some cuts it is hard to tell which way this is after the meat is cooked, and before it is cut.

Pot Roasting Beef.
There are a number of cuts that are suitable for pot roasting, among them round, rump, chuck and sirloin. As they differ a bit in price and in the size piece that makes a good roast, these will probably be the deciding features. Brown pot roast quickly in a small amount of fat, then reduce the heat at once, add a small amount of water—from one-quarter to one cup, depending on the quantity of meat—and cook very slowly until tender. Generally the cuts of meat mentioned above require about 30 minutes slow cooking for each pound after the meat has browned.

There should be enough pot-roast left over to make a ragout for next day's dinner. It will be seen that by the addition of any left over gravy and by serving mounds of boiled rice with the ragout, that a moderate amount will go quite a way. Fresh or canned spinach or boiled kale makes a good vegetable to serve with such a dish.

Beef Ragout With Rice.
Cut cold roast beef or pot roast in medium sized, even shaped pieces and sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper, using three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper for four cups meat. Melt three tablespoons butter or meat drippings in a deep saucepan, put in the meat, one-half cup sliced onions and three whole cloves. Stir until the meat is a little browned, then add two cups canned tomatoes, any leftover gravy and one-half cup boiling water. Cover closely and cook slowly for one hour. Then stir in one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and one tablespoon flour mixed with a little cold water. Let boil up once and serve with mounds of boiled rice.

Arrange the rice in the center of a hot platter and pour the ragout around it. Sprinkle with minced parsley.

Date and Nut Pudding.
Beat three egg yolks thoroughly and add half a cupful of sugar gradually. Stir in two tablespoons of bread crumbs and one teaspoonful of baking powder mixed together. Cut and fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites, and last of all half a cupful of dates which have been chopped into coarse pieces and lightly floured, and half a cup of broken walnut meats. Bake in a buttered baking dish in a slow oven—300 degrees F.—for three-quarters of an hour. Break into pieces of serving size and serve with whipped cream.

Truth about

Pork Sausage

Frankly, you'd be astonished if you could go behind the scenes and see how SOME pork sausage is made—astonished at some of the things which go into it.

"Sausage is an excellent food when properly made," says Uncle Sam in his U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Circular No. 63, "but unless its manufacture has proper supervision, it can also be a most grievous deception."

In fact, pork sausage which is not Government-Inspected may not be pork sausage at all! It may have a nice bright color, it may look like fresh, wholesome meat—and yet be made of very questionable ingredients. It may contain water in excess quantities, adulterants like rice flour, corn flour or potato flour, with "some kind of meat." It may contain a deleterious preservative and artificial coloring matter. All this may make a nice-looking product—but it is not pure, wholesome pork sausage.

U. S. Government Inspection does not permit the use in pork sausage of cereals or other adulterants, injurious preservatives and artificial coloring, nor any unfit, inedible ingredients. All these are absolutely barred. Furthermore, the Government requires honest, accurate branding, labeling and packaging of pork sausage and all other food products. Nothing can be in the least misleading or deceptive.

So, when you buy pork sausage prepared and put up by a Government-Inspected plant (see list below), your Government's endorsement is back of that product. You get pork sausage that IS pork sausage—pure, wholesome, appetizing, and as fine a food as there is to eat!

Skin six Bermuda onions. Cut a slice from the top of each and then scoop out the centers. Cover the onion cups with boiling water and cook very gently until almost tender. (It is better to steam them if possible).

Meanwhile, wipe three-quarters of a pound of beef liver with a damp cloth and then put through the meat grinder. Add one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, and one tablespoonful of tomato catchup. Refill the onions with this mixture, sprinkle the tops with buttered breadcrumbs and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees Fahrenheit for about half an hour.

NUTS THE BASIS OF MANY GOOD DISHES

Various Ways of Utilizing Nut Meats in Cooked Combination Dishes.

Whether this year's crop of nuts is more bountiful than in previous seasons or whether there has been more effort expended in effectively displaying these products of the forest, the fact remains nuts are putting forth great appetite appeal this year.

Nuts are particularly nutritious and this season will see them utilized in combination dishes, not as trimmings and pretty food accessories, but as one of the basic ingredients of many cooked dishes such as croquettes and muffins.

Savory Nut Dish.
Pass one cup peanuts (shelled) through meat grinder. Add one cup soft bread crumbs, one two-thirds cup milk, one slightly beaten egg, pepper to taste and about one and one-half teaspoons salt. Fold in one stiffly beaten egg white. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven about 35 minutes.

Caramel Nut Pudding.
Caramelize two cups sugar, add to the caramel two cups of cold milk. When caramel and milk have blended, stir in two tablespoons corn starch moistened to a paste with cold milk. Stir until the mixture thickens. Cook 15 to 20 minutes or until starchy taste disappears. Cool. Then add one-half cup chopped walnut meats. Cover with whipped cream.

Nut Muffins.
Use two cups whole wheat flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, four tablespoons honey, one tablespoon melted or liquid shortening, one egg, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-fourth cups sour milk, one-fourth cup finely chopped mixed nut meats.

Toss whole wheat flour, lightly and measure. Sift onto it baking powder, soda and salt; stir well. Mix honey, oil, egg and milk; add to first mixture. Mix quickly but thoroughly. Turn into well greased muffin pans, filling half full. Sprinkle nuts on top and bake in a hot oven 35 minutes.

Nut Croquettes.
One and one-half cups walnut meats, one and one-half tablespoons minced onion, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one teaspoon lemon juice, two tablespoons water, three-fourths cup soft bread crumbs, one and one-half tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup milk, one and one-half tablespoon chopped green pepper, one egg and salt and pepper to taste.

Melt butter, add flour, add milk, cook five minutes. Add nuts, bread crumbs, green pepper, onion juice, salt, pepper and lemon.

Spread mixture on a plate to cool. Mould into croquettes, dip in egg and cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Value of Printed Menus.
Experienced housewives look upon any printed menu plan as a source of suggestions in the planning of their own meals, rather than as a set and dried formula.

They know that family likes and dislikes, the question of cost, and also the supply of foods in their local market must more or less govern their selection of daily food. Also they know that other foods may often be substituted for the ones named, providing they belong to the same group, without disturbing the balance of the meal.

WHO WROTE "THE OFFICE WIFE" AND "ALIMONY"

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

BOB, on hearing of Betty's visit to his home, immediately took counsel with his mother.

"What did she say?" he asked eagerly.

Mrs. Stevenson told him, rather cleverly and with some reservations.

"She is the most obstinate girl that ever lived!" Bob complained. "She knows perfectly well that she loves me and that I love her and then she goes and talks all this nonsense about not being engaged any more!"

"You must have said something to hurt her," commented his mother quietly, and he started to break out into denials and protestations.

"Oh, don't bother. I know you, Bob. However, the harm's been done now. I quite agree with you that she still cares for you. She was far too honest to say that she did not—but still I believe you've made a mistake all the way through. Why don't you keep away from her for a little while?"

"But I don't bother her," explained Bob, indignantly. "I never go there except daytimes when the rest are all about—and I've never tried to—both her and I've never since that night!" he ended weakly and almost to himself.

His mother understood. He meant, as clearly as if he had shouted it from the housetops that he had not tried to impress her with his self-elected claim. In other words, he had not tried to kiss her, to touch her hand even.

It was hard on him, she thought, tenderly, yearning over them both. And she was right. Only it was far harder than she realized being a woman, and not a young woman at that.

Sometimes this very repression of Bob's annoyed Betty to exasperation. She found herself wishing fiercely that he would drag her out of sight and hearing of the others and kiss her—as he used to kiss her—a little savagely, but very tenderly. Why didn't he do that instead of sitting there, glumly and awkward in the family circle under Helen's sympathetic and Virginia's hostile eyes, under the vague, affectionate glances of Mrs. Warren, the dreaming unawareness of Gladys.

Of course he would have no right to do such a thing—now! And she'd order him out of the house for once and for all, for such a mistake, she told herself—and almost succeeded in making herself believe that she wished Bob would break through the barriers—merely in order that she might have a very definite excuse for dismissing him permanently!

He was working harder than ever at the garage, with a little boy pique in "showing" Betty. He had acquired the habit of a private market for his polish and wax more convinced than ever that if ever he could find the capital to manufacture it in quantities he would be on that most difficult avenue to conquer. . . . Easy street. The owner of the garage had made it, it was true, a tentative offer but it was not good enough.

One Sunday afternoon when Bob came in to the Warren's he found a perfectly strange young man there, a blonde young man with good gray eyes which looked straight into his own, a young man who gave him a firm, honest handshake when they met. This person was presented to him as one Harry Martin, and it appeared that he had just been made a member of the firm for which Betty labored.

He and Betty seemed to have a good deal in common, though Bob, watching them gleefully as they laughed and talked together, making a thousand and one references to things that were old stories to them both but of which Bob knew nothing. Bob remembered having heard the family speak of this young man frequently of late.

He liked him. He couldn't help liking him. Lee seemed such a regular guy to Bob. But Bob was convinced that Harry was interested in Betty. Why, how could he help it? Wasn't he seeing her every day and weren't they doing some sort of work together, there in the office. It stood to reason that he must be crazy about her! Any man would be, glowered poor Bob to his heart. . . . And Betty. Well, she certainly was, as if she liked him all right. First name Gladys and all that. This Martin bird seemed to be on the very best and most intimate terms with the whole family. Look how Gladys unbent to him—something she had never done for Bob, even.

Well, thought Bob, better Martin than Lorrimer. But he wasn't going to give up the struggle—even if it meant a hard battle.

Betty belonged to him—Bob! Bob had a car outside, one that he was trying out and suggested that some of the group come for a ride with him. It finally settled itself into Betty and Gladys and Harry. Bob thought he would be very clever and maneuver Betty into the front seat with him. Of Designers Make Concessions to Infantile Tastes in Underwear and Pajamas—Patterns Are Interesting.

by designers to the infantile tastes and wishes.

TAKE their little pajama suits, for instance. All sorts of lengths have been gone to our store to make these night clothes so intriguing that little children might actually be fooled into wanting to go to bed just to have the privilege of wearing them.

See the little girl in the illustration with her white pajama blouse and printed trousers. The blouse has a couple of ducks appliqued on its front for its trimming, and that's because a flock of little ducks are printed all over the trouser material—enough to excite her childish imagination for many nights running.

And if stories of ducks and their babies give out, she can change to another pair redolent of fairy-tale interest.

This one has printed silk trousers with a pattern of trees and houses and woods and things done as though they had been cross-stitched by her great-grandmother.

This particular suit has a yellow blouse with green piping and a soft green belt to tie around the middle. Either of these pajama sets can be had in silk with blue or green or yellow predominating in their design, so that the young lady's complexion as well as her story-book interest can be satisfied at one and the same time.

Then all over the surface of the print are an army of puppy dogs, making a very delightful pattern, and training the young man to be set them up on the path of friendship, never to deviate from that path. And it gave Harry to think! He thought and thought, keeping his own counsel, saying nothing to Bob but becoming determined to keep his eyes open where Betty and Lorrimer were concerned. He really felt himself one of the family now, and he considered that Betty, Gladys' sister and perhaps his own cousin, saying nothing to one day, his own, was now his responsibility since she refused to let Bob shoulder it—and her. Very foolish of her, thought Harry.

"Do you like him?" Bob shot out. Harry hesitated. He had never really considered "liking" or "not liking" Lorrimer. The older man entertained him. He was a clever fellow, attractive, generous, and a good host. But "liking" in the sense Bob meant it?

"Well, enough, I suppose—never gave it a thought. He's amusing enough and rather brilliant," he answered, "free with his money and time and all—liking? Well, I'd never make a bosom friend of him if that's what you mean—but I think he's harmless enough. Stevenson—and I am sure Betty cares nothing for him. He's not her sort."

This was comforting to Bob and after more conversation the vagaries of women and half an hour spent by Harry in singing the praises of his particular One and Only, the two young men wandered around with another of the garage cars to take two girls out for the promised spin. And this time Harry courageously sat with Gladys and managed not to "make a fool of himself" and Betty sat with Bob in the front seat and talked to him more pleasantly than she had since their quarrel—but impersonally. And Bob was sensible enough to be grateful for small favors—and to let well enough alone.

THIS day too, had its consequences. It cleared up the fog between Bob and Harry and satisfied with nothing less than the very best when he grows up and attempts to carry out his childish established tastes. Seriously, what I mean is that the whole thing is so perfectly done that, besides being covering for the precious little body at nighttime, it is helping to establish in his little mind excellent theories of good taste.

The pajama is in one piece. The coat is a regular man's cut with a small, rolled collar and honest-to-goodness pockets.

Lorrimer wasn't "harmless" at all—far from it. He began to recall the newspaper and Park avenue and Broadway and Greenwich Village gossip about Lorrimer and especially in connection with Lorna May.

Damned if he wanted his sister-in-law to be to be mixed up with a fellow like that! swore Harry to himself, ranging himself once and for all upon Bob Stevenson's side.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. J. J. Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Improving Obstetrics

In recent years the public and the medical profession have manifested deep concern in the unenviable maternal mortality record of the United States.

The United States ranks sixteenth among the countries of the civilized world. For each 1000 births in the United States there are six maternal deaths. The loss from blood poisoning alone amounts to 2 deaths per thousand live births.

This rate of deaths due to pregnancy and delivery is almost three times as high as that of the leading countries of the world.

It is to be accounted for in part by the fact that there are more difficulties to be met in a mixed population than in a homogeneous one. Healthy, mostly rural populations such as the Scandinavian countries, for example, have a maternal mortality rate of one death per thousand live births.

Anesthesia and instrumental delivery are held to be responsible for a good deal of puerperal infection that develops in obstetrics.

In an address recently delivered at the New York Academy of Medicine by a leading obstetrician and gynecologist, the statement was made that "the demand for painless labor on the part of women must carry with it a penalty."

"Magazine articles and the lay press have spread the idea of painless labor but they have not mentioned the penalties. It is time that women were informed of them."

"In demonstrating that the use of chloroform Sir James Simpson conferred on women a priceless boon."

"Since his time, other anesthetics and anesthetic and other methods of administration have been discovered and devised. All of them have to be used with discretion and judgment."

"None of them used indiscriminately is free from danger, and the great danger is that they so use or stop labor pains that instrumental delivery becomes a necessity."

Steam the squash until tender, then mash in a warmed bowl with smooth. Add a large lump of butter, one teaspoon grated orange peel, one-half teaspoon each of salt and sugar and one tablespoon sweet cream.

Incidentally, the white hat in inclosure seems to have taken. Everyone has it. It's difficult to count the number of hats in the city any afternoon now—and they're all winter versions. There are white fur caps, stitched white felt hats, elaborate versions of the familiar old white chenille beret (only the chenille is very, very fine and knitted or woven in a tight mesh so that it looks a great deal like straw) and a lot of hats of white velvet.

One that you see pretty often is Agnes's (all done in black and white) that has a broad velvet wound around the head, placed low over the ears, and well off the forehead at the top.

Chez Marie Alphonsine, the clever person who invents and makes so much this year, there are more tiny brims—all of them folded and pulled about and flattened out in some way to make use of the good points in the silhouette of a person's head, and to conceal the bad ones.

MARIE ALPHONSINE likes to combine things, either materials or colors and sometimes both. She makes one brown felt hat with half its brim (the right side, beginning at the center front) in beige grosgrain ribbon. Both brims end at the back in a little airplane tail that sticks out at the nape.

LOTS of the new hats that might otherwise look too somber have this little touch of white somewhere. There is an interesting model signed by Marcelle Ross—a large cap of black felt, with white hankies tied around its edges, right next to the face, its two ends tied in a perky loop in the front. Molyneux uses this same kind of bow at the left front of his felt hats; the ends are put at sharp angles, and instead of lying flat they protrude out from the silhouette.

Marie Christiane is using all sorts of new straws, and fabrics that look like straw. All of them are supple and are folded into shapes just as though they were fabric. She is making black things, black and white ones—and a couple of striking models are in the brilliant orange that is scheduled to go with dark brown and bright blue and black spring outfits.

ATTRACTIVE. If you are fond of a bowl for cut flowers, cover the bottom thickly with small, colorful pebbles and use them as supports for the flower stems. They make the glass holder a much more attractive decoration.

HATS are WHITE

It's the Latest Color in Paris—Black Straws to Be Prime Favorites.
By KAY GRENELLE

By the time you read this, spring hats in St. Louis will be less of a reality. But in Paris where you have to go very secret doors to find the really new things, the on hats are still images—canvases and toile affairs that show the lines are going to be, and a series of fabrics that may be used for the making.

Of course there are always some spring hats in the store there are always the caps and capelines that are made for the But among the really new ones, the hats that are different those we've been seeing, there are still only hazy forms of some.

The majority of the canvases forms seen so far are small. Not extremely small, nor bonnet shaped, nor yet of the beret variety. They are more like a hat that has grown up and become a hat. In spite of their smallness, they are dignified and quite wearable for practically any body.

Even in those houses where they make a conscious effort toward the brim (and the effort is a conscious one, for French people in general prefer a small hat to a large one, except for the beach)—even in the brim-specializing houses, the brims are being pulled in around the head to give the effect of a small hat.

Suzie White is doing some interesting things with brims right now. She had one model in felt that has its brim in a variety of widths—some as the edge of the brim makes a jagged line rather than a smooth circle or oval. This jagged brim she folds and pulls around her head and there to make an interesting line around the face—flat on one side, full on the other, and drooping low on one ear—then attaches the brim in a single spot above the left temple with a crisp feather.

Another of her brimmed hats is wider at the sides and has its front pulled back over the head and attached flat across the top of the forehead, in the sombrero manner. It is especially stunning in white material, with its entire surface covered with red and black stitching.

Incidentally, the white hat in inclosure seems to have taken. Everyone has it. It's difficult to count the number of hats in the city any afternoon now—and they're all winter versions. There are white fur caps, stitched white felt hats, elaborate versions of the familiar old white chenille beret (only the chenille is very, very fine and knitted or woven in a tight mesh so that it looks a great deal like straw) and a lot of hats of white velvet.

MARIE ALPHONSINE likes to combine things, either materials or colors and sometimes both. She makes one brown felt hat with half its brim (the right side, beginning at the center front) in beige grosgrain ribbon. Both brims end at the back in a little airplane tail that sticks out at the nape.

Another hat, with its entire crown molded from dark green grosgrain ribbon, has a brim of white grosgrain that is flat at the back, loose and extended just back of the ears, and then becomes flat again at the front, where it is pulled back off the face to show some of the green crown beneath.

LOTS of the new hats that might otherwise look too somber have this little touch of white somewhere. There is an interesting model signed by Marcelle Ross—a large cap of black felt, with white hankies tied around its edges, right next to the face, its two ends tied in a perky loop in the front. Molyneux uses this same kind of bow at the left front of his felt hats; the ends are put at sharp angles, and instead of lying flat they protrude out from the silhouette.

Marie Christiane is using all sorts of new straws, and fabrics that look like straw. All of them are supple and are folded into shapes just as though they were fabric. She is making black things, black and white ones—and a couple of striking models are in the brilliant orange that is scheduled to go with dark brown and bright blue and black spring outfits.

Another of her brimmed hats is wider at the sides and has its front pulled back over the head and attached flat across the top of the forehead, in the sombrero manner. It is especially stunning in white material, with its entire surface covered with red and black stitching.

Incidentally, the white hat in inclosure seems to have taken. Everyone has it. It's difficult to count the number of hats in the city any afternoon now—and they're all winter versions. There are white fur caps, stitched white felt hats, elaborate versions of the familiar old white chenille beret (only the chenille is very, very fine and knitted or woven in a tight mesh so that it looks a great deal like straw) and a lot of hats of white velvet.

One that you see pretty often is Agnes's (all done in black and white) that has a broad velvet wound around the head, placed low over the ears, and well off the forehead at the top.

Chez Marie Alphonsine, the clever person who invents and makes so much this year, there are more tiny brims—all of them folded and pulled about and flattened out in some way to make use of the good points in the silhouette of a person's head, and to conceal the bad ones.

Quarreling Friends

Occasionally one of children who quarrel and are yet devoted and inseparable.

First it is well to remember that what sounds like a serious quarrel is often only a habit of copying from each other.

Quarrels between friends are due to feelings of rivalry and admiration.

It is not likely that a quarrel will come of such a friendship. On the other hand it is these same children who are most satisfactory.

Others if given the opportunity to quarrel should see that children have contact sufficient number of times to choose a community of interest.

Where circumstances are such that children are together in a community of interest, it is better that they quarrel than not.

If, however, one child wishes to have the better of the other, help and protection should be given.

From the society of the child at frequent intervals it is made to tell fair play and sports.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN
By Mary Graham Bonner

Rich Spices

JOHN had often traded pencils and knives and marbles, and boats he had made himself, and balls, and once he had traded a kite for a baseball bat.

Ivory had traded a doll's kitchen stove for a little sofa to go in her doll's house. But when the children traded they talked the whole matter over with their friends.

These early sailors did not trade in any such way at all. They took spices and other treasures they had with them along the places at which they stopped.

They did not speak to the native people. They would go away at once, and then they would wait awhile before they went back and made these same stops again to see what the natives had left for them. If they liked the chunks of gold the people had left alongside their spices, they would take gold and leave the spices.

If they didn't like the trade, they would not take it or their own spices. They would simply go away again and when they would return once more they would find more gold left for them. They had shown that the first trade was not enough!

John kept saying to the Little Black Chief:

"Why don't they wait and see the people when they know in advance just what they want? Then they wouldn't have to come back again."

But, after all, he was glad their method of trading was different. He would be able to tell his friends how trading had been done—but then he didn't believe this system would work with any of the boys he knew. They always liked to talk things over and see how other boys had to trade.

The spices always seemed to be so much desired by the natives.

As Peggy said, spices always sounded so nice and so rich and so traveled and so interesting—always coming from so far away!

Bushman as he looks today at the age of 47.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN IS FLAT BROKE AGAIN

Once the Richest Actor in the Movies
He Now Plays in an Obscure Stock Company—Made One Come-Back
But Couldn't Keep His Footing on Ladder of Success.

Francis X. Bushman, when he was the hero of the films.

said in an interview a couple of days ago. "I don't need any money now, and I can manage to travel less grandly than I used to."

And Bushman certainly traveled in the grand manner in the days when he rose to the pinnacle of his success as a movie actor—1916 to 1918.

The most luxurious apartments in the metropolis; the most regal suites on ocean steamships; private railroad cars—all these costly accommodations were reserved for him as mere routine matters.

But it was his automobile that knocked filmdom's guying eye out. It was a lavender car, with lavender upholstery and decorations and with a chauffeur and a footman in lavender uniforms.

Should such friendships receive encouragement or should they be broken?

First it is well to remember that what sounds like a serious quarrel may be actually only an outward vehemence due to habits of expression copied from grown-ups or from older children.

Quarrels between friends may be due to feelings of mutual jealousy and rivalry which coexist with mutual liking and admiration.

It is not likely that much harm will come of such a friendship.

On the other hand it is possible that these same children could find other more satisfactory relationships if given the opportunity.

Parents should see that their children have contact with a sufficient number of children to enable them to choose as their companions those with whom they feel a community of interest and for whom they have genuinely pleasant and friendly feelings.

Where circumstances give children no alternatives but to play with each other or to play alone, it is better that they should play together no matter how much they quarrel.

If, however, one child seems always to have the better of the controversy the weaker one must be helped and protected.

It may be wise to withdraw him from the society of the dominating child at frequent intervals while an effort is made to teach the other fair play and sportsmanship.

"I've seen everything there is to see and done everything at an age when I could enjoy it most," he said.

Both Theda Bara and Hilliard were extremely popular in those days.

What caused Bushman's first decline as a movie star was his romance with Beverly Bayne, which led to his being divorced by his first wife in July, 1918, and his marriage to his leading lady.

The two players had first met in 1912 in the old Essanay studios in Chicago, where Bushman was just beginning to make a name for himself. Beverly was just out of high school when she embarked on her film career. Bushman, who had the reputation of being a connoisseur of feminine beauty, at once selected her for his next picture. They played together in "Graustark," "The Masked Wrestler" and other roof-raising hits of the early cinema era. They seemed inseparable.

Then along came a fat juicy contract from Metro which tripled Bushman's salary. Bushman signed on the dotted line, although it meant losing Beverly as his co-star. His new employers tried to make him happy by giving him

Marguerite Snow as his leading lady, but he was plainly unhappy and so at last Metro decided to offer Miss Bayne a contract. Bushman himself rushed across the continent from Hollywood, which had just come into existence as a movie colony, and escorted Beverly and her mother back to the Coast.

THE climax was inevitable. Mrs. Josephine F. Bushman, whom he had married in Wilmington Del., in 1907 and who had borne him five children, divorced him. Two days later Bushman and Miss Bayne were married.

The movie fans, used to the dogma that "virtue always wins," which the movies of those days were always preaching, shook their heads in dismay. They had discovered that their idols had feet of clay. And within a year, after a romantic honeymoon, Bushman and bride discovered one day that they, who only a few months before had been acclaimed the most popular stars in this country, were without a contract, and, worse still, there was no contract in sight.

"Since July of last year," he ruefully admitted in the spring of 1919, "I have made but one picture on account of my former wife and have been unable to obtain employment."

It was told that he had been in the street by fellow actors that a movie star's matrimonial troubles usually, injure him in the eyes of the moving picture public.

He and Miss Bayne appeared together in a vaudeville skit for a season while waiting for public antipathy to cool. The skit was called "The Poor Rich Man," and it was one of the star attractions that season.

By and by Bushman got started again in the movies. He made several trips abroad with his wife and both were feted in many European countries. Then, in 1924, he was offered a chance to play the role of Messala in "Ben Hur," which was to be produced in Rome, and he accepted with alacrity. But when he asked his wife to go along she shook her head. And while he was still in Italy the following year she divorced him.

ON HIS return to Hollywood he compared himself with the principal character in the vaudeville skit in which he had played—"A poor little rich man, that's just what I am now," he said. He also found that again he could obtain no engagements, so he began producing his own pictures.

But this proved costly. He found that as a producer he was a good spender, and regretted that he had never taken a course in economy in his youth.

Two years later most of his after all, he's only 47.

money was gone, and he announced to the world that he was through with the movies.

What little money he had left, he explains now, has been spent in lawyers' fees and in alimony to his first wife, who has had him in the courts here and in Baltimore on numerous occasions for being in arrears in his alimony payments.

Bushman recalls somewhat wistfully that before he ever embarked on his screen career he had tried out 37 other vocations. He had acquired himself with honor as a bicyclist, a wrestler, a boxer, a swimmer, a circus performer, a side-show ballyhooper, an actor on the legitimate stage, and in 30 other professions.

Now he is back where he started on his most successful career—in Chicago. Perhaps they're calling him just Bush again, as they did in the old days. But he is cheerful—his after all, he's only 47.

PARIS, Jan. 8.

By the time you read this, spring hats in St. Louis will be more or less of a reality. But in Paris where you have to go behind very secret doors to find the really new things, the only spring hats are still images—canvases and toile affairs that show you what the lines are going to be, and a series of fabrics that may possibly be used for the making.

Of course there are always some spring hats in the shops and there are always the caps and capelines that are made for the South. But among the really new ones, the hats that are different than those we've been seeing, there are still only hazy forms of what's to come.

The majority of the canvas forms seen so far are small. Not extremely small, nor bonnet shaped, nor yet of the beret variety. They are more like a beret that has grown up and become a hat—if you can get what I mean. In spite of their smallness they are dignified and quite wearable for practically anybody.

Even in those houses where they make a conscious effort toward brims (and the effort is a conscious one, for French people in general prefer a small hat to a large one, except for the beach)—hats, the brims themselves are pulled in around the head to give the effect of a small hat.

Suzanne White is doing some interesting things with brims right now. She had one model in felt that has a brim in a variety of widths—that is, the edge of the brim makes a jagged line rather than a smooth circle or oval. This jagged brim she folds and pulls around here and there to make an interesting line around the face—flat on one side, full on the other, and drooping down on one ear—then attaches the brim in a single spot above the forehead with a crisp feather.

ANOTHER of her trimmed hats is wider at the sides and has its front pulled back over the head and attached flat across the top of the forehead, in the sombrero manner. It is especially stunning in white material, with its entire surface covered with red and black stitching.

Incidentally, the white hat in question seems to have taken everyone has it. It's difficult to count the white hats in the Ritz any afternoon now—and they're all winter versions. There are white straw caps, stitched white felt hats, elaborate versions of the familiar old white chenille beret (only the chenille is very fine and knitted or woven in a tight mesh so that it looks a great deal like straw) and a lot of hats of white velvet.

One that you see pretty often is a straw hat (also done in black and white) that has a braid of velvet woven around the head, placed low over the ears, and well off the forehead at the top.

Chez Marie, Alphonse, the clever person who invented the double brim that everyone is liking so much this year, there are more many brims—all of them folded and pulled about and fastened out in some way to make use of the good points in the silhouette of a person's head, and to conceal the bad ones.

MARIE ALPHONSE likes to combine things, either materials or colors—and sometimes both. She makes one brown felt hat with half its brim (the right side, beginning at the center front) in beige grosgrain ribbon. Both brims end at the back in a little airplane tail that sticks out at the nape.

Gifts for the Invalid
IT is proper for a woman to send flowers or fruit to a man friend who is ill?

MARY.
Yes, entirely proper and most kind. But they're a better gift in this case than fruit, because sometimes fruit is not allowed in the diet, and often, too, it is not easy to care for in a sick room. A group of magazines, too, is an excellent gift in case—as you will recall if you have been ill for any length of time. It is so easy to turn the pages and see short things, and read to the dream of the rising sale line

For more than fifty years, mothers have praised California Fig Syrup. Leading physicians advise its use with bilious, headachy, constipated children, or to keep the bowels open during colds or children's diseases. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It tones and strengthens weakened bowels; helps make children robust. Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine.

"MY little son, Carl, suffered from constipation," says Mrs. Rose Riddler, 1323 Blair Ave., St. Louis. "He was having a hard time until I heard of California Fig Syrup and got him some. The first few doses regulated his bowels, brightened him up marvellously and seemed to give him new strength and energy."
